IKE TO VISIT CANADA FOR SEAWAY OPENING

OTTAWA (CP)—President Eisenhower will come to Canada June 26 to join the Queen in opening ceremonies of the St. Lawrence Seaway at Montreal, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

He informed the Commons that President and Mrs. Eisenhower will join the Queen and Prince Philip on the royal yacht Britannia for the seaway opening ceremony at the St. Lambert Locks, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal.

$200 MILLION FOR DEFENCE

U.S. to Share Bomarc Costs With Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Payment by the United States of two-thirds of the cost of Canada's anti-aircraft missile system is expected to be announced soon, informants said today.

This system, comprising the Bomarc ground-to-air guided missile, the Sage electronic control system and new radar stations, is expected to cost more than $300,000,000.

The announced cost of Sage and two Bomarc stations in Canada is $264,000,000 alone.

Canadian and American officials who have been working out plans for defence cost- and production-sharing since last October—they held their third meeting here Tuesday—have used the general yardstick of the U.S. paying two-thirds, and Canada one-third the cost of Bomarc and its ancillary equipment.

MORE U.S. CONTRACTS
The officials have also been grappling with the problem of how more U.S. defence contracts can be placed with Canadian firms.

This scheme is likely to run into heavy opposition from the U.S. Congress and industry, especially with the U.S. government paying the major share of the new missile system.

The Canadian government is concerned about the exodus of technicians in the Canadian aviation and electronics industries to the U.S.

CANADIAN CONTRACT
Canadair Limited, Montreal, may get a small order to build wings and ailerons for the U.S. Bomarc now in production. The Bomarc to be used in Canada will not come into service until late 1961.

Canadair has put in a strong bid for a huge U.S. government contract for some 200 radar picket planes.

De Havilland Aircraft Company, Toronto, has received an order for seven more Caribou transport planes from the U.S. army. The original order was for five.

Feud Over Cyprus Ends in Accord

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—Greece and Turkey agreed today to give up their claims to Cyprus and to start work immediately to turn the Mediterranean island colony into an independent republic.

The decision should bring an end to more than three years of bloody violence on the island and halt a family quarrel that has put a severe strain on NATO.

Premiers Konstantinos Karamanlis of Greece and Adnan Menderes of Turkey worked out the last details of the agreement at a final meeting here this morning. They had been meeting since last Friday.

A formal joint statement said at the end of the talks: "A compromise accord has finally been reached, despite the considerable difficulties which this problem presents."

"The cause of liberty, collaboration, and the welfare of Cyprus has emerged victorious from the test."

NEXT STEP
The next step was to lay the outline of the agreement before the British government, which presently rules Cyprus as a Crown Colony. Britain has encouraged direct contact between the Greeks and Turks to solve the thorny problem.

British officials expect the Zurich agreement to provide the basis for a full-scale British-Turkish-Greek conference on Cyprus in the near future. Such a conference should settle the final settlement.

U.K. Expels John
DOVER, England (UPI)—Former West German counter-intelligence chief Dr. Otto John was expelled from Britain today as an "undesirable alien" despite his wife's urgent plea that he be allowed to join her here.

He said that if it were found possible to produce a properly constituted, safe and effective multi-purpose vaccine of this character, the idea would be to inject it in children at about the time they also get shots against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and polio.

During the last decade, he said, scientists have uncovered about 70 previously unrecognized viruses, including about 25 that cause various forms of respiratory illness, much of it in children.

He said scientists at NIH already are engaged in preliminary tests of vaccines aimed at some of these agents.

GARDENERS BEWARE: DON'T INHALE

LONDON (UPI)—Professor F. C. Pybus, a leading British surgeon, warned today that smoke from burning leaves and garden rubbish are possible causes of cancer.

Pybus, professor emeritus of surgery at the University of Durham, wrote in the magazine the Medical Press that, "the smoke from these smouldering heaps is darker, more irritating, generally foul smelling and, as might be expected, contains benzpyrene, a suspected cancer agent."

New York Firm To Probe Hydro 'Extras'

By MAL MALONE, Times Business Editor
The Shrum Royal Commission has engaged a New York firm of consulting engineers to make preliminary investigations of over-expended B.C. Power Commission projects.

L. C. Peterman, vice-president of Ford, Bacon and Davis, will arrive in Victoria Thursday, it was announced today by Dr. Gordon Shrum as the Royal Commission hearings resumed in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Peterman will conduct a preliminary seven-day study of over-expended power commission projects. From his report the Royal Commission will determine if further studies are to be made.

A letter from former power commissioner J. D. W. Blyth, read by counsel Ernest Alexander, revealed that he may attend one of the sittings of the commission, set up to probe Power Commission operations.

RESIGNED
Mr. Blyth was appointed to the Power Commission on March 26, 1954. He resigned within a few weeks under mysterious circumstances and left Victoria for Cleveland where he became controller of Brazilian Traction and Power Co. He is now a vice-president of Carling Breweries Ltd.

Replying to an invitation from the Royal Commission to give evidence, Mr. Blyth said: "I very much doubt my evidence would throw any particular light on subjects within the terms of reference of the Royal Commission. I doubt if it would be as spectacular as the papers seem to think. Mr. (H. Lee) Briggs (former general manager of the PC) has no personal knowledge of the reasons for my resignation."

NOT HOPEFUL
"... although I am not too hopeful at the moment, I will endeavour to get to one of the sittings. Other than to my visit last December, I have not been in Victoria since 1954."

"I would make no claim for personal expenses. If any, involved, but would bring my attorney . . . and I would be interested in having his expenses and costs met."

"Should I be unable to attend and should the Royal Commission want a brief written statement I will be glad to comply."

Mr. Alexander told reporters that the royal commission would not pay the expenses of Mr. Blyth's attorney. He said the expenses would be paid by the B.C. Power Commission.

Mr. Blyth's expenses from Seattle (which he visits occasionally) to Victoria.

The Shrum Royal Commission was also told:

1. The value of power obtainable by the diversion of the Chilko River is $16,800,000 or about 30 times greater than the value of landed sockeye.

Dowell Offers To Accompany A-G to Ottawa

A proposal that Canadian National Steamships operate a Victoria-Vancouver service until the provincial government ferries are ready next year will be put forward at Ottawa this week by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner will leave by air at 8 a.m. Thursday, armed with a unanimous resolution from the B.C. Legislature asking the federal government to assure continuation of year-round ferry service.

The CPR plans to end the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle service for the winter two weeks from today.

City council members have offered to accompany the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner said today he will discuss the CNSS proposal when he meets with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and three cabinet ministers.

He said he has asked for an appointment with the prime minister Friday, and the following day hopes to meet with Defence Minister George Peckham, Works Minister Howard Green, and Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi also commented today on the possibility of using CN vessels. The suggestion was made in the House Tuesday by Gordon Dowling (CCF-Burnaby).

Mr. Gagliardi said if the federal government cannot or will not subsidize or otherwise arrange for continued CPR operation, the use of CN vessels should be considered.

(At present the only CN ship on this coast is Ss. Prince George, laid up for the winter at Vancouver but booked for Alaska cruises starting May 24.)

Gagardi Studying Other Solution
Mr. Gagliardi said he might have a further answer to the shipping dilemma to put forward later today. In the meantime he discounted reports the CPR ships now on the run could not continue without costly boiler repairs.

"They have an extension on their boiler inspection period and would be quite safe to operate," the minister said.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell today offered to go with Mr. Bonner to see the prime minister and also CPR President N. R. Crump.

"I, the mayor or an aldermanic delegation will go with Mr. Bonner Thursday morning if he wants our help," Ald. Dowell said.

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle today summoned his cabinet into emergency session to discuss a new wave of extreme rightwing agitation in Algeria.

Race Driver Killed
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Marshall Teague, nationally famous stock car race driver, was killed today when his Sumar Special racer flipped over at Daytona International Speedway.

Honduras Rebels March on City
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, (UPI)—Reports from northwestern Honduras said today a force of about 1,000 rebels was advancing on Santa Rosa, capital of Copan province and chief city in the area.

The force threatening Santa Rosa was said to be made up of insurgents who occupied the nearby town of Copan Tuesday but withdrew at the approach of loyal troops.

Ottawa Can't Do Anything—Peakes
In Ottawa Mr. Peakes told a Times correspondent that he has raised the matter of the CPR ferry with Transport Minister George Hees, only to learn there is nothing the federal government can do.

"Both Mr. McPhillips and I have spoken to Mr. Hees," he said, "but we got the same answer: the minister gave in the House Monday."

"This is a private company and there is nothing the federal government can do to force it to operate an unprofitable business."

Mr. Hees said Monday he had not been able to find anything to the effect that provision of the ferry service was a constitutional or legal responsibility of the federal government.

Mr. Bonner said his basic task "will be to convey the concern of the legislature and gain recognition, by people 3,000 miles away, of the view held locally."

"The fact that a service of this sort is subject to interruption undoubtedly has a bad psychological effect and a bad effect on business which depends on satisfactory shipping service."

"It is all the more galling to realize the withdrawal of a Canadian service to Seattle will be replaced by an American firm."

(Washington State ferries will offer a service to Seattle via Sidney and Anacortes starting Feb. 26.)

Meanwhile Vancouver Island Coach Lines has announced stepped-up bus service Victoria-Nanaimo connecting with Vancouver ferries. Buses will leave Victoria at 8 a.m., noon, 4 and 7 p.m. daily. Elapsed time from downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver will be 4½ hours. Fare is $8.55 return via Nanaimo, as against the present fair of $6.75 return for the direct trip.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow entered the ferry battle today and called for a joint meeting of Greater Victoria municipalities, the provincial government and Mr. Crump.

"There should at least be a meeting to see if there is a solution to this problem be-

Interior Junior Colleges Aim of Determined Group

A British Columbia-wide organization of businessmen and influential citizens is conducting a quiet but efficient campaign for establishment of several junior colleges in the Interior, Education Minister Leslie Peterson confirmed today.

He said his department is taking no active part in the surveys being carried out by the group, except to "encourage incentive so the move will stem from the communities."

He said a group in Nelson is working in close co-operation with the school board there. It is understood the minister met with this group for talks while he was campaigning at the Rossland-Trail by-election campaign in early December.

He said so far the whole affair "is at the exploratory stage." The minister indicated during the election campaign, however, that a junior college in the Nelson-Castlegar area, which would also serve Trail district, would be considered at an early date.

It was indicated UBC Alumni branches throughout the province are taking an active part in the organization.

A junior college would operate along the lines of Victoria College, offering the first two years of the university course.

There are 11 such junior colleges in the State of Washington and it is expected similar operations in B.C. would do a great deal to relieve crowding at UBC and cut expenses of students in outlying areas.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Time often passes slowly in this stately chamber where laws are made but it had never occurred to me until Tuesday that this might be due to the bright red carpet on the floor of the House.

In my ignorance I had supposed that the invisible lead weights holding back the hands of the clock were formed by the weighty words of long-winded legislators. Attorney-General Robert Bonner has a different theory. He quoted from a scientific treatise stating that color exerts a physical effect on the individual and the color red "makes time appear to pass more slowly."

So now we know. But that wasn't all. Mr. Bonner suggested the recent heated debates in the House might have been caused by this red carpet, since the scientists found that the color red increases blood pressure, quickens muscular reaction, excites the emotions and produces "a general feeling of listlessness."

A CCF member suggested changing the carpet. "You wouldn't dare lift this one," chorled Opposition Leader Robert Strachan. "Too much dirt has been swept under it."

Mr. Bonner: "The honorable leader of the Opposition knows his side of the carpet much better than I do."

The House was tense and expectant when the Attorney-General launched into a detailed defence of his handling of the Sommers bribery case. The galleries were crowded and members of the public, leaning forward in their seats, followed him intently.

Among them was Liberal leader Arthur Laing. Much of Mr. Bonner's speech was directed at George Gregory, the Liberal member for Victoria, who on Monday accused the Attorney-General of delaying prosecution against ex-Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers.

Mr. Gregory did not hear the words of reproach addressed to him. He was away from the House suffering from flu.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi—the man with the biggest voice in the House—has been under heavy attack by the CCF since he warned against "gangsterism" in the trade union movement.

John Squire, the outspoken CCF member for Alberni, soundly rebuked Mr. Gagliardi for his words and defied anyone to say that B.C.'s trade union leaders were gangsters.

"The majority," he said, "were honest, conscientious men."

Mr. Squire then sought to interest the government in buying property at Long Beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island. He described it as "the last large expanse of ocean beach that is acceptable to the people of Victoria and the mainland."

"There is some myth that the water there is too cold but you only hear that kind of talk from people on the wrong side of 40."

A local bird lover is wondering wishfully, perhaps, if the daily visits of a Canada goose to the lawns of the Legislative Buildings portend disaster for the government. According to Indian legend, a mythical hero named Kall changed a spirit into a goose because he "cackled too much."

"It may be," says this bird lover, "that the goose is trying to warn the government against the dangers of too much talk. Or it may be that the bird simply feels a kinship with members of the Legislature."

A lady reader of this column is kind enough to say she likes it—but adds: "Why not lay off women's clothes? Your dress notes are excruciating."

U.S. PILOT TO BE TRIED BY CUBANS

Guevara, commandant of Havana's Cabana Fortress, told newsmen Tuesday night that Nye would be arraigned soon before the revolutionary tribunal on a "number of charges," none of which carried the death penalty.

We "probably will just kick him out of Cuba," Guevara said.

fore the ferries are taken out of service," he said.

"If Mr. Crump doesn't know what's going on out here then it's high time he did. The CPR has an obligation to this area."

Ald. Edgelow said that the most serious aspect of the ferry situation "is not just the loss of foot passengers which we need but the possible loss of other industries here."

"We're trying to encourage secondary industry here but this move can have far-reaching effects on that."

He said a joint meeting would give civic governments an opportunity "to point out that the CPR hasn't improved its facilities here for years. They have been neglecting Greater Victoria for a long time."

He said the meeting also was needed to clarify CPR's plans and produce "a guarantee, which we don't have now, that they will resume their summer service at least."

On Tuesday Premier Bennett announced Mr. Bonner's trip to Ottawa just before the House unanimously passed the resolution calling for federal government action.

"The government is 100 per cent behind this resolution, of course," said the premier. "The attorney-general will fly to Ottawa this weekend to present the resolution."

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, who proposed the motion for federal intervention, ended the short House discussion with a criticism of Victoria MP McPhillips, who had not yet spoken on behalf of the ferry continuance in the federal House.

He said Mr. McPhillips was spending his time instead, preparing a bill to wrest control of the Fraser River from the B.C. legislature. Speaker Hugh Shantz ruled the remarks out of order as irrelevant.

SMALL CONCERN

Mr. Chant told the House "a matter of this kind cannot be judged on economics alone" and if the CPR was losing money on the ferry run, that was of small concern when considered in the light of the economy of this area.

"We are within our rights in asking federal action," he stated and reviewed some of the land grants made to the CPR over the years by the Dominion. The railway received alternate sections of land on either side of the right-of-way all across the prairies.

"They took their choice of the land."

He said the federal government is assisting transportation "... to the extent of millions" in Eastern Canada, "and can't do less than to recognize their responsibility in the West."

Mr. Dowding (CCF-Burnaby) said it was necessary that "the attorney-general remind the federal government they do have a nationally-owned steamship line on this coast."

"STRANGELY MUTE"

Mr. Dowding also was critical that neither Defence Minister Pearson (Esquimalt-Saanich) nor Mr. McPhillips, had raised the matter on the floor of Parliament.

"The government has been strangely mute," said Mr. Dowding, noting that three CCF MPs from B.C. had spoken on the subject.

J. Donald Smith (SC, Victoria) said his confidence in the CPR and the federal government "... at the present time is about equal."

"I can't understand why they (the CPR) didn't give us more notice. I hope to hear from the members we sent to Ottawa to represent this province. It is quite evident the north won't be developed when they can't even keep the south intact," he said.

DARK PATH

John Tisdale (SC, Saanich) wondered whether the labor unions, who settled with the CPR last summer were not "led down a dark path," the CPR knowing it would, withdraw when settlement was made.

He called it "deceit with intent." Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) also referred to past benefits given the CPR, among them the resale to Vancouver parks board of 32,900 acres in Vancouver at a price of $125 per front foot, or a total of $74,000.

Dan Campbell (SC, Comox) said the loss of the Victoria-Vancouver service is "merely a symbol of an over-all sickness. He noted that the federal government involved itself in a $19,000,000 Canal Strait causeway and the proposed construction of a causeway to Prince Edward Island, both in Nova Scotia.

"If we want the federal government to involve itself we should point out what it is spending in the east and ask the same treatment here."

3. That the PC has spent $1,000,000 on surveys of the Kokish and Homathko-Chilko River systems as potential power sources;

4. That the Strathcona development (which exceeded initial estimates of $2,000,000 by $15,000,000) was abnormal in its early stages due primarily to the urgency to develop low cost power; and

5. That the Power Commission was caught up in the construction boom from 1952 to 1958 when an abundance of work by contractors led to a lack of competitive bidding and pushed up tenders.

CONCERN

Dr. Shrum expressed amazement and concern that power utilities have no regulatory body to appeal to when they can't meet federal and provincial fisheries' requirements on potential power sources.

E. T. Quirk, PC generation planning engineer, told the commission: "When we are confronted with an impasse which might be against the public interest, we feel there should be some appeal."

He emphasized that the comparison of power and fish values of the Chilko were based on halting the complete flow of the river.

"But," he said, "the power commission proposal calls for diverting only half the flow." He estimated the fish value of the Chilko at twice $570,000 if the U.S. catch is considered.

Mr. Quirk outlined in detail PC studies to meet continued load growth. Surveys costing $150,000 show that one of the most attractive future hydro sources lies near Pyramid Mountain on the Murtle River, a tributary of the Clearwater north of Kamloops.

B.C. CCFer Offers Huge Employment Plan

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—A massive CCF program to combat unemployment, including larger unemployment insurance benefits paid to all workers whenever they are out of a job, has been placed before the House.

Erhart Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam), in presenting some 16 major proposals Tuesday, said he realized the government would think the cost "simply fantastic."

But he said the CCF party doesn't think the cost is beyond the country's capacity "and we are quite prepared to tell the government how they can find the necessary money."

Mr. Regier spoke near the close of a two-day supply debate that centred on opposition demands that Prime Minister Diefenbaker meet the provincial premiers for new tax-sharing talks.

government assurance this would be done.

Instead, the huge Progressive Conservative majority voted down two non-confidence motions. One, a Liberal call for an immediate federal-provincial conference on unemployment and fiscal problems, was defeated 171 to 50.

The second, a CCF amendment by Mr. Regier, was defeated 171 to 49. It summarized his three major demands: Complete federal responsibility for welfare of employable unemployed; job opportunities for all willing and able to work; and reduction of interest rates on provincial and municipal borrowings.

Relief for Provinces, Municipalities

Mr. Regier, in presenting the whopping CCF program, said the provinces and municipalities should be relieved of all unemployment costs for those able to work.

Higher unemployment insurance benefits should be paid—and continued as long as a worker is out of a job. And the unemployment insurance commission should be empowered to deal with situations where a community's main industry is closed down.

He said federal action should also embrace low-interest loans to municipalities, a major adult education and retraining program, construction of a national highway network, sharing of provincial capital costs of education, a 150 per cent bonus in hospital construction grants, a program for modern penal institutions, more aid for low-cost housing, help for provincial and municipal recreational facilities.

To boost Canadians' purchasing power, Mr. Regier proposed, a national minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, a maximum 40-hour work week to create more employment, a national pension plan, higher family allowances, and removal of the 10 per cent federal sales tax on essential commodities.

Tuesday's sitting also brought renewed indications of opposition criticism of Mr. Diefenbaker's proposed bill of rights. Liberal and CCF members, citing criticisms made by others, asked that the bill be referred to a committee.

The prime minister replied he "cannot see any good reason" for that since the subject had been under discussion for years.

In the Upper Chamber, Canada's only Indian senator, James Gladstone (PC, Alberta), said Indian students should be encouraged to mix with non-Indians to learn better how to manage their own affairs. They should not be kept in Indian reserve schools. "We have been wards of the government for so long that

Prefab Houses

TOFINO—Three new pre-fabricated houses have been sent to Ojibwa Indian Reserve to relieve a housing shortage there, and a fourth will arrive shortly.

Each measures 24 by 30 feet. It is expected that each year a few new houses will be built to replace the oldest houses on the reserve.

The community is served by a modern school of two rooms.

At 16... Is a boy too young to drive?

Probably only a year past riding a bicycle, he's youthful, carefree and exuberant. But is the sixteen year old responsible enough to handle a car? Is he fit and able to control 4000 pounds of automobile capable of over 100 miles per hour? His reflexes and reactions may be perfect, but what about his mental attitude towards other road users? Read the article in this week's Star Weekly—it contains some sobering truths we cannot afford to ignore in handling this problem. On sale today.

Loggers Accuse RCMP

LATIN VISIT STARTED BY ROYAL PAIR

LONDON (UPI)—The Duchess of Kent, Greek-born aunt of Queen Elizabeth, and her 22-year-old daughter, Alexandra, leave by air today on a month-long tour of Mexico, Peru, Chile and Brazil—the first British royal visit to Latin America in 28 years.

The titled tourists paid a farewell visit to Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace last week.

The last member of the British Royal Family to go to Latin America was the Prince of Wales—now the Duke of Windsor—who visited Argentina in 1931.

Ex-Minister's Wife Dies Here at 72

Funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at McCall's funeral parlor for Florence Murray McKenzie, 1442 Rockland, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday.

The mother of city lawyer Lloyd McKenzie, she was 72.

Mrs. McKenzie came to Victoria from Penticton in 1928 when her husband, William Alexander McKenzie, was appointed minister of mines in the Tolmie government.

Surviving are the widower; a daughter, Mrs. Reginald H. Meek, of West Vancouver; and sons Donald and Lloyd, of Victoria.

Cremation will follow the funeral.

10% More Demand For Car Licences

GANGES—Office of the provincial assessor here has reported a 10 per cent increase in demand for car and truck licences this year.

The office received 475 passenger plates and 275 commercial plates for immediate distribution from here to Gulf Islands residents.

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—The RCMP's role in the strike of 1,200 Newfoundland loggers commanded most of the attention today as the bitter dispute entered its 42nd day.

Two incidents since Saturday resulted in charges by union leaders that the RCMP was taking sides. One involved a report that an RCMP patrol car sideswiped women pickets; the other that they carried machine-guns in rounding up striking loggers after two woods camps had been smashed.

H. Landon Ladd, Canadian president of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA), said Tuesday the RCMP is "being used as an arm of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company." The loggers, who went on strike at the company Dec. 31 for more pay and a shorter work week, are IWA members.

'SHOCKING AFFAIR'

Mr. Ladd called for an investigation by the provincial and federal governments into the alleged, sideswiping incident. He said it was a "shocking affair."

The charge was denied by Insp. Arthur Argent, in charge of the RCMP force in this central Newfoundland area.

In the House of Commons, CCF House Leader Hazen Argue asked assurance that members of the RCMP are not being used as "strike breakers." Justice Minister Fulton replied that the RCMP was carrying out its responsibilities for local law enforcement under the direction of Newfoundland's attorney-general.

Leslie Curtis, Newfoundland attorney-general, said Tuesday night he checked into the report that an RCMP patrol car sideswiped women pickets and is completely satisfied there is no word of truth in it.

Still Time to Talk

THE TOUGH POLICY ON THE cold war, laid down recently by Mr. Khrushchev, has been followed by a stiffening among the Western allies and reported unity on what to do to hold West Berlin against Soviet threats.

The colder cold war program of Russia has been varied from time to time with incidents such as Mr. Mikoyan's visit to the United States (which produced many friendly words but no change in the fundamental Soviet attitude), and various complaints from Moscow that the United States was not contributing to the thaw.

But beyond the fair words, the fact remains that May 27 is still the deadline for the Western democracies to get their troops out of West Berlin "or else." The West's reaction, naturally, has been to make plans to stay.

Such plans were the subject of Mr. Dulles' visit to Europe where he conferred with British, French and West German spokesmen. The trip was forced, apparently, by two considerations: One, the Soviet threat itself; and two, the initial lack of agreement among the allies as to how to meet the situation.

As Mr. Joseph Alsop has explained in various articles published on this page, Britain was at first reluctant to support a plan of force to keep the land lines open between West Berlin and the West German border. Mr. Macmillan reportedly favored a resort to the air lift which succeeded in 1948. But the conditions have changed since that time.

Radial jamming techniques of the Russians would confine an air lift to daylight flying in good weather, and this could not long sustain the traffic necessary for the city's needs.

On the other hand, the use of force to keep the highway and railway routes open to Allied traffic would pose instant problems.

Mr. Khrushchev has said that military force used against East German authorities would be immediately answered by Soviet force. In other words, World War III would be on.

The West's toe-hold in West Berlin is completely covered by treaties with Russia. There is every legal right to maintain occupation forces there to protect the democracy that has flourished like an island in a sea of communism.

Russia's decision that the arrangement must be terminated by May 27 is entirely unilateral and the West cannot accede to it without suffering a crushing defeat. All history warns that concession to one dictatorial demand leads only to another.

For this reason Mr. Dulles has announced, after conferring with his European allies, that the West is willing to risk war if necessary to preserve its place in Berlin. It is hoped by this firm stand to deter Mr. Khrushchev from going ahead with his announced intention.

If Mr. Khrushchev is bluffing, then it will work. But if Russia is not bluffing, then it will have to be determined whether or not the West is bluffing.

That is the perilous brink on which the foreign ministers of the countries concerned may gather sometime before May 27. The Soviet Union has been invited to meet the West to devise a way out of the impasse, possibly involving a general German settlement that would include the problem of Berlin. But the margin of security is getting thinner. Time is running out.

Oak Bay and the Library

OAK BAY COUNCIL HAS RECEIVED requests from some of its residents and its board of trade for establishment of a library in the municipality.

Accompanying the requests is the suggestion that the municipality give full study to the issue before entering a long-term agreement with the Victoria Public Library, from which the district now receives service.

Full study is essential to determine if an independent library for Oak Bay would be preferable to shared use of the existing service and to inform Oak Bay people what an adequate library would cost.

Basically a library needs space, staff and a supply of books and periodicals. Books include not only novels and other light reading as well as non-fiction but—if the library is to serve its purpose—a vast backlog of reference works.

The Victoria Public Library has all these requirements and provides a service recognized by library authorities of international repute.

These are authorities such as the Canadian Library Association—an organization which has made expert studies of library needs, an organization, moreover, which fixes a population of 25,000 as the bare essential for minimal library service and says a population of 100,000 is needed to support an adequate service.

If a full study of the issue took such information into account and still justified a local library for Oak Bay, one other point would remain to be settled. That is the question of location.

Presumably a suitable site might be found within reasonable distance of the municipal hall. How convenient that would be to the residents of Oak Bay is conjectural. An interesting index might be found in the locations at which Oak Bay people pay their water bills. Eighty per cent of residents living north of Oak Bay Avenue pay them at downtown department stores.

In other words, it is easier for people living north of the Avenue to pay such bills while they are in town than it is to make a special trip to the municipal hall. Similarly a large number of people living south of Fairfield Road pay their municipal bills in downtown centres and go to municipal hall only when forced to.

In the light of these circumstances, is there any assurance that a library in any particular part of Oak Bay would be more convenient for all residents than a library at the corner of Blanshard and Yates streets?

A great deal more study is obviously necessary before Oak Bay embarks upon any library project of its own—any library project, that is, other than the commercial circulating library already represented in the municipality.

It's Your Money

THE SOCIAL CREDIT MAJORITY on the legislative accounts committee has rejected the suggestion that the committee be empowered to examine the books of agencies which the government supports.

Mr. Martin, minister of health, says such accounts are beyond the responsibility of the committee and that their examination would exceed its terms of reference.

The proposal to open the books, had it been approved, would have broken new ground. Such accounts have not been examined by the committee before. But there seems to be excellent reasons why new ground should be broken. Never before in the history of the province has the government transferred so much of the debt load from its own shoulders to those of agencies in the form of contingent liabilities.

Include Us Out

THE B.C. SOCIAL CREDIT League's budget-eve full page newspaper advertisement has proved, if it proved anything, how self-defeating clumsy propaganda can be.

The advertisement said in large type: "Wood Gundy's Dec. 1958 report clearly shows Premier Bennett right on B.C. finances."

So read the ad. But, says the Wood Gundy company, "We did not authorize the use of our name or the publication of the advertisement. Our booklet merely presents

Those contingent liabilities now amount to a little less than half a billion dollars. And since the government provides an annual subsidy for the Highways and Bridges Authority, the committee representing the public might reasonably expect the right to see how public money is being used.

A motion has been placed on the order paper asking that the books be open to committee inspection. Such motions can, however, be delayed until the closing minutes of the session.

In the meantime, the Social Credit members on the committee have voted down the proposal to open the accounts for inspection. Thus the public cannot know how its money is being spent.

Social Credit keeps you informed?

figures given us by governments. We do not attempt to interpret them. We dissociate ourselves from this."

The message is clear enough: sponsors of an advertisement used the Wood Gundy name, without authority, to support their claims on British Columbia financing. Wood Gundy want nothing to do with it. The company's position is easily understood. It is properly incensed at being drawn into party politics without so much as a "by your leave."

SUB-SURFACE IMPRESSIONS

By B. A. TOBIN

From the Wild Blue Under

I SEE by a dispatch from Washington that the experts have been listening in on fish again. It's hard to imagine any creature less intrusive than a fish when it comes to conversation. You'd think that humans would be happy to leave well enough alone and allow all fishy remarks to be swallowed up in the depths. Yet there seems to be a continual curiosity on the part of some humans, not only about what the wild waves are saying but about such small talk as may be current among the minnows, and any biting comments passed from one shark to another.

Tobin

Those who seem to be obsessed with the necessity of making a deep study of such goings on are no doubt of two types. There are the men who are not married, who do not attend mixed social gatherings and who spend most of their free time in the reading rooms of libraries or the meditation rooms of clubs.

In other words, they lack the stimulation of sprightly conversation; they feel an urge to hear thoughts exchanged between one mind and another, and they go to the best place they know: the ocean. Here, even if they are a little hard of hearing, they can count on listening in to some interesting chatter.

And then there is the other type, the men who are married, who attend mixed social gatherings and who have not access to the haven provided by library reading rooms and club meditation rooms.

In other words they have a surfeit of sprightly conversation, they feel an urge to get away from the sound of thoughts exchanged between one mind and another, and they go to the best place they know: the ocean.

Such talk as they hear in this environment comes to them only as a bubbly murmur—a blessed relief from the cacophony of vocal uproar from which they are seeking escape. Down in the cool depths conversation Pises are something to swim around, not to argue about.

Hence both types of submarine visitor are satisfied. And what they have been hearing lately, the one in a dim, soothing murmur, and the other at full blast with the aid of amplifying devices, is amusing or shocking according to how you accept it.

The experts report that a good deal of the chatter down among the buoys and grills is nothing but sex talk.

Whether they are looking for mates, going around with mates, or trying to get rid of mates, fish, it seems, maintain a constant gabble about what they are doing. Now you know why scuba divers come up with red faces.

The conversations range all the way from drumming sounds to yelps, squeals, mewling and rasping noises, grunts, croaks and whistles, the eavesdropping scientists say.

Many a wife, human type, will recognize this sort of communication and express a certain sympathy with the fishwives who must listen to it.

The investigators have not yet supplied us with a translation of conversations heard among this undersea portion of the earth's population. Perhaps a lot of it is submersive propaganda. But enough has been heard to gain an idea of the groundswell of public opinion down there. The recording tapes might carry something like this:

"Hiya, Bubbles. Going my way."

"You fresh fish."

"Ah, don't be like that. Come on for a little swim."

"I'll have you know I'm a nice gill."

"Call me Elmer."

"You must think I'm common as plankton."

"Why don't you drop up and see my collection of coral?"

"Swim by, big boy. Elmer! Elmer you stop that! ELMER!"

Or perhaps this sort of thing will be heard off Brochile Ledge in the near future:

"Seems awfully quiet around here tonight."

"Yes, that thumping noise hasn't gone by all week. And that Big Shape seems to have disappeared entirely."

"After midnight now and still not a sound."

"Wonder what's going on up there?"

"Nothing, I guess."

Listening to fish talk isn't as silly as it sounds. Matter of fact, after some of the international talk we've heard lately, it could be a big improvement.

As Our Readers See It

After Salk

Your editorial "Was the March Necessary?" on Tuesday, Feb. 3, was naturally of interest to me.

The reference was, of course, to the Mothers' March in aid of the B.C. Foundation for Child Care, Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation. This was the sixth annual campaign in Greater Victoria. After the first three or four "marches" Salk vaccine was perfected and, apparently, has all but wiped out polio. We are proud to say that we, the Kinsmen of B.C., either directly or through our affiliations, had a hand in the development and the administration of this vaccine.

It is true, fortunately, that there were very few new cases of polio in B.C. last year. We are not so sure that for a little while to come there is no danger of further outbreaks—everybody has not yet been vaccinated. The possibility of another epidemic, we hope, is remote. We cannot, however, forget those dozens of patients, victims of former epidemics, who are still to be rehabilitated. Such rehabilitation is very expensive as is well known. It requires physiotherapy, equipment and facilities for long periods of time. Even without the child care program we have an obligation to fulfill.

I should also like to emphasize that contributions to the fund were strictly on a voluntary basis. We set no quota for Victoria. The response from the citizens was most generous.

May I take this opportunity of expressing the appreciation of our Kinsmen organizations to the householders of Greater Victoria for their contributions to the Marching Mothers. A very special thank you goes to those mothers, daughters and, in many cases, fathers who have given their time again in helping us make the campaign successful.

Plea for Speedboats

I own a small speedboat, and in regard to this idea of curtailing the use of speedboats on small lakes, I am definitely not in favor of it.

It must be realized that power boats are replacing the rowboat as the automobile replaced the horse. It is the swimmers who seem to complain the most as well as the canoeists and sailors, but the swimmers should keep close to the shore anyhow unless a boat is with them.

Perhaps the book of rules for boat-

Pictures for Royalty

After reading your columns about the coming presentation to Queen Elizabeth next June, may I take the liberty of offering a suggestion to you?

We all know our Queen loves beauty.

It's not good to spend too much money when there's so much want and distress everywhere.

We want something typical of B.C. Now what could be finer to represent our province than a pair of pictures, real photographs taken by B.C. photographers? They could be colored by B.C. artists from the arts society. One from Victoria and one from Vancouver. Water coloring would do.

One picture to represent Victoria, capital of B.C., could be the famous Beacon Hill scene of the bridge, swans, etc. This is truly beautiful. The other picture could be of B.C.'s interior, a mountain and water scene, such as could be taken at Hope.

These are B.C.'s own products. The blankets someone mentioned in your column, are made in England.

Who knows! Perhaps many people would visit B.C. after viewing such lovely scenery.

FROM LONDON

Caught in The Draught

THIS is an uncomfortable spell for Ministers. They are in the position of someone sitting in a room who cannot discover just where the draught is coming from and yet feels cold.

Take the closing of Britain's first stretch of motorway, the Preston bypass, for example. The Minister of Transport, Mr. Watkinson, admits that the defects which the hard weather has revealed are a nuisance, but still speaks as though under his rule all is for the best in the best of all possible transport worlds. (The Lancashire members say: "It's a pity it should be Lancashire again.")

Or take the finding of the Restrictive Practices Court against the cotton spinners' price agreement. ("A pity it should be Lancashire again.") The Government rightly argues that it intended Lancashire to have the first successful stretch of motorway, and that it is not responsible for the findings of the Restrictive Practices Court.

So, argues the Government, the draught ought not to be blowing from the County Palatine.

But then it starts blowing from the Government's own back-benches.

Urgent Importance

On Thursday of last week, Mr. William Yates, the Conservative member for the Wrekin, tried to secure the adjournment of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance—the reopening of military operations in Cyprus when (1) the Governments of Greece and Turkey were consulting each other; and (2) the Governor of Cyprus and Mr. Macmillan were trying urgently to seek a permanent peace in the island.

Mr. Yates based his case on a Reuter report, and he told the House how he had been unable to get this report confirmed or denied by the Government. Mr. Yates did not secure the adjournment of the House, but as a result of his activities the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Lennox-Boyd, made a short statement in the House later that night.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd said that new exercises had begun in Cyprus, that reports of their scale had been exaggerated, and that there had been no curfews, cordons, or searches of villages.

Mr. Yates' energy in this cause is not appreciated by Ministers. They do not regard him as being "sound" on Mediterranean and Middle Eastern affairs.

This aberration on Mr. Yates' part might in the ordinary course be officially ignored in the hope that nobody else would bother with it. But last Thursday the Opposition bothered with it in a big way.

Labor members, with Mr. Bevan leading them, supported the demand for the adjournment of the House and got into one of those trying tussles with the Speaker which make the observer wonder just how far the Opposition will go, and just how long the Government will avoid uttering a helping word.

Public Demonstration

What added to the Government's discomfort over Mr. Yates' intervention was this public demonstration of disaffection within its own ranks, just when Lord Hailsham is trying to patch up the divisions in the ranks of the Bourne-mouth-East-and-Christchurch Conservative Association, which were also originally caused by Mediterranean malaise as over Suez.

Mr. Yates did not go quite so far as another Government supporter on the following day, Sir David Robertson, the member for Caithness and Sutherland, gave up the Tory whip in the House as a protest against the failure of the Government to help the Highlands. Friday was indeed a windy day for Ministers.

The latest public opinion poll showed Labor in the lead, and the Government candidate in the Southend West by-election received 8.6 per cent less of the votes cast than had his predecessor in the general election of 1953. Labor's share of the votes fell by 0.6 per cent, but the Liberal share rose by 9.2 per cent.

This week started off with another touch of Mediterranean malaise—the second reading of the bill which empowers the Government to end, under Letters Patent, the present constitution of Malta. We have travelled far since the Malta Round Table Conference proposed, with all but unanimity, that Malta should be integrated with the United Kingdom and have her own representatives in the Parliament at Westminster. Labor has never pretended that the problem of Malta is simple, or that Mr. Mintoff is an easy man with whom to negotiate.

Difficult Position

Labor also realizes the exceptionally difficult position which confronts any Prime Minister of Malta who has to win as many tricks as he can for his people with no trump cards. But the Government cannot regard the course of events in Malta as the brightest chapter in its record.

Mr. Gaitskell gave a warning that Labor, if returned to power, would take the strongest measures against British financial controls, and Mr. Wilson demanded that Britain should not open her market to consumer goods from the United States unless fair trading conditions for Britain existed in the United States. He referred to the refusal of the Americans to accept the English Electric tender for generators at Greer's Ferry Dam.

Mr. Maundling, the Paymaster-General, shared the very great disappointment about the English Electric tender, but he pointed out that for the last four years Britain had had a current account surplus with the United States. In general, he maintained that the extension of the area in which sterling is freely convertible would make the protection of sterling easier: "It is easier to defend one rate for sterling in a market operating in this country than to defend two rates of sterling, one of which is operating in markets outside this country." He added that the international value of sterling could not be fixed by the British Government; it must depend upon supply and demand.

U.S. Isolationism Again?

NEW YORK—Will the world have to look for an alternative to the United Nations?

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made this provocative suggestion in an address last week before the Bar Association of New York. UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld replied at a press conference by suggesting that no alternative is possible except another body organized on essentially the same lines.

This informal debate brings out important differences of a subject of major world importance between two intelligent, highly informed men. It may also contain a warning of a resurgence of U.S. isolationism.

Mr. Dulles is apparently saying that if the members won't condemn Communist "attacks on law and justice" then it may be necessary to set up another assembly from which Communists and neutralists would be excluded.

Mr. Hammarskjöld replies that a universal organization is a "must" and he sees that, even if there were to be a successor to the UN, it would have to be organized on essentially the same lines.

It should be added incidentally that Mr. Hammarskjöld's remarks, made at a press conference, were not aimed directly at Mr. Dulles, but there was no doubt that it was in fact a rebuttal.

Here's a key paragraph in Mr. Dulles' statement:

"I say in all seriousness that the UN and the world can perhaps survive a limited phase of double standard but they can not survive a permanent double standard, unless the United Nations becomes, for all, an instrument of peace through justice and law, as it was designed to be. Then, as the founders declared, some alternative must be found."

From this and other remarks in the speech, it appears that the alternative Mr. Dulles has in mind would be an assembly which would exclude the Communist and neutralist nations. Mr. Hammarskjöld replied that a universal organization is a "must" in the modern world and he said any successor to the United Nations would have to be organized on essentially the same lines.

"Is there any alternative to a world organization... based on universality, for the purposes which only a world organization can serve?" he asked. He said that there are shortcomings in the UN and he suggested that experience is showing ways to improve its operations, but he said that a world organization "must be on the same basis."

Mr. Dulles in his bar association speech also warned of the dangers of "bloc voting in terms of geographical areas or in terms of 'haves' and 'have nots'." This remark on the dangers of bloc voting caused some ironic laughter at the United Nations because of the vigor with which the U.S. has organized the anti-Communist bloc.

In fact the phrase "let's get out a nice big vote," used by the "parliamentary whips" of the U.S. delegation, has become one of humorous little sayings at the United Nations.

The odd thing that this statement about bloc voting is that it comes just as the blocs in the United Nations, far from becoming "dangerously rigid," are showing signs of crumbling.

Here perhaps lies the key and the explanation to Mr. Dulles' remarks and it may indicate a danger ahead for the United Nations. When Mr. Dulles calls for "more emphasis on moral judgments" he is in fact calling for more solidarity in the anti-Communist bloc and he seems to be warning that the United States might pull out of the UN if the voting starts going against her.

This is said by some experts on American public opinion to be a real possibility and fear of a new wave of isolationism is given as the explanation for much of the support given the United States by Canada—the vote against the admission of China, to the UN, for example. Certainly the United States is concerned about future voting trends in the UN and a study has been ordered by the State Department.

To sum up, the opinion at the United Nations is that there wasn't much logic behind Mr. Dulles' suggestion for a new assembly which presumably would consist of the NATO nations and a few of their friends. But there could be something very real in the implicit warning of future American isolation.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Canada House Planning

LONDON—Calling all architects. Here's something that may interest you.

Behind Canada House there is a piece of vacant land that used to be the site of Hampton's furniture store. As most people know, there was a scheme to build an annex to Canada House there but Ottawa decided against it. If that idea had gone ahead Canadian architects no doubt would have been given a chance to be the ones to design a building.

But even though that has fallen through, architects in Canada still have the opportunity to draw up plans for what they feel would be a suitable building for the site. The Sunday Times has offered a first prize of $7,000 and other prizes adding up to the same total to architects anywhere in the Commonwealth.

The land is part of the big island site on the north side of Trafalgar Square on which stand the National Gallery and the National Portrait Gallery. Although this is mostly a competition and doesn't involve a commission I thought some of you might be interested in planning what you think might be done with this important property.

You can get full details from the Sunday Times, Kemsley House, London, W.C. 1.

And, incidentally, along the road from Canada House on Pall Mall at the Demolition of the Carlton Grill has been done and New Zealand House is all set to start slapping up its sleek 18-storey embarrassment to our antiquated "London office."

I see that one of the afternoon strip-shows (London now has six of them flourishing) calls itself "the world's only luxury daytime nightclub." This struck me as a bit contradictory until I considered that it's no worse, really, than our persistent use of the word "matinee" (morning performance) for a show that takes place in the afternoon.

Definition, by comedian Ted Ray, of a fugue: "It's when the orchestra comes in one by one and the audience goes out two by two."

Fallen for the $130,000 lure of Sapphire Films, makers of Robin Hood and other highly successful TV series—Jack Hawkins, Britain's strong, silent, jut-jawed star has deserted movies to play the lead in a new TV series based on the old Edgar Wallace thriller, The Four Just Men.

CHINESE REDS
BANKER CLAIMS

MONTREAL (CP)—The Chinese Communists want to trade with Canada, says James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, "but I think our government is asleep."

Mr. Muir, who toured Red China last summer, said Tuesday night Canada could trade with Communist China without officially recognizing the government there, though "we'll have to recognize them sooner or later anyway."

Canada's refusal to trade, he told the Old Boys' Association of the High School of Montreal, is "only a confused policy of our neighbors to the south. It does a great deal of harm and it is a great disadvantage."

Summit Meet
Seen by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently believes that a summit conference late this year is a definite possibility.

Such a meeting would bring Western government heads face-to-face with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for a discussion of critical East-West issues. These undoubtedly would include questions of Germany and of disarmament.

Whether a conference is actually arranged probably will depend partly on whether East-West negotiations ease Soviet pressures to get the United States, Britain and France out of West Berlin.

"I believe the Russians themselves are more concerned," Mr. Khrushchev is concerned in a heads-of-government meeting, as he calls an informal and without an agenda type," Mr. Eisenhower said.

"Well, that would take a great deal of preparation." Despite the disagreement over the amount of advance preparation needed, informed officials say that a summit conference is indeed a possibility as things now stand.

It was reported that a task force of U.S., British, French and German diplomats have completed the draft of a note to Russia suggesting a foreign ministers' meeting on German problems in the spring, probably beginning late April or early May.

Eisenhower brought up the subject of a summit meeting briefly at his press conference Tuesday in discussing a question about the effect of State Secretary Dulles' illness on prospects for a foreign ministers' meeting.

The president said he thought Dulles' condition would not delay a foreign ministers' conference.

However the president was

was formally knighted by the Queen Tuesday in ancient and colorful ceremony in gilded ballroom of Buckingham Palace. Touching him with her sword, first on his right shoulder and then on his left, the Queen made Guinness a Knight Bachelor.

RUSSIANS TRY LURE

False Beam for Sabres

OTTAWA (CP)—The Russians on one occasion apparently attempted to lead astray with a false radio signal a flight of Canadian Sabre jet fighters being ferried from Canada to Europe; it is learned reliably.

The incident occurred a few years ago but came to light only today in the wake of President Eisenhower's statement that he believes that some United States planes have been lured across the Iron Curtain by false radio signals.

The Sabre is a short-range plane and its transatlantic flights had to be carefully planned so it wouldn't run out of fuel before arriving at the next stop. The flights were made from Montreal to Goose Bay, Labrador, Blue West One, Greenland, Keflavik, Iceland, and Kinloss, Scotland.

A flight of four Sabres, was following a radio beam into Kinloss when a new and stronger radio signal was superimposed on the beam.

This signal, if it had been followed, would have taken the Sabres north of Scotland and they might have gone down into the sea after running out of fuel.

On investigation, the pilots discovered that the signal apparently was emanating from a Russian ship in the North Atlantic below them.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Time Now to Tend Yule Gift Plants

Many beautiful potted azaleas were received as gifts at Christmas, and the blossoms are only now beginning to deteriorate in size and color.

Readers have phoned to know if the plants should be planted into the garden, or be thrown away.

In my experience, the potted azaleas are the most satisfactory of the winter house plants and richly repay the care they required to bloom again.

The Indian azalea (azalea Indicum) which is grown in pots is not suited for planting into the garden. At this time however as the flowers become smaller and drop off more readily, the plants should be repotted. I find it best to remove the few remaining flowers and buds, since the new growth appears at the base of the flower stems.

Straight peat moss should compose most of the potting soil used. Do not use bone meal or other general fertilizer, nor blue whale peat moss.

The only pruning need be cutting out of any unbalanced branches.

Soak the repotted plant in a basin of water for a couple of hours to be sure the entire contents are moist. Keep the azaleas in a well lighted window and syringe over the foliage with tepid water a few times each week.

The new growth which is already starting will make rapid headway with this treatment, and the plants will soon look healthy and lively.

During the summer, the pots may be plunged to their rims in a half shady border to receive regular watering, never becoming dry.

Each summer month the plants should receive an application of special rhododendron (or acid-mix) fertilizer. Before the first fall frost, the pots should be lifted, cleaned and brought into the house or greenhouse, and again placed in a sunny window. The flower buds will develop rapidly, and first blossoms will be out early in December.

One essential for success with azaleas is frequent syringing of the foliage with water, and another is a peaty soil which is always kept moist.

Political Motives, Says A-G

Defends Handling Of Case

Attorney General Robert Bonner, defending his handling of the Sommers case, Tuesday accused George Gregory, Victoria Liberal MLA, of making false statements inspired by political motives.

Mr. Bonner was speaking in the budget speech debate in the legislature.

He said Mr. Gregory's references to former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers have been to "the calculated prejudice" of the ex-minister's trial and civil court action.

Mr. Gregory on Monday challenged the attorney-general to explain the delay in prosecuting Mr. Sommers.

Mr. Gregory, ill with flu, missed Mr. Bonner's reply. Mr. Bonner said this was the fourth year that Mr. Gregory had concerned himself with the Sommers case and the "fitness of the attorney-general."

'Distasteful'

He said the references by Mr. Gregory were impolite, political in extreme, and "distasteful." Mr. Gregory had made repeated reference, said Mr. Bonner, to an interview Dec. 7, 1955, between "a Vancouver lawyer, a resident of the state of California and myself."

"Until last year, every effort had been made to leave the impression that a great body of evidence was presented to me... the suggestion is completely false..." said Mr. Bonner.

In fact, he said, he had received only a statutory declaration without supporting evidence. The lawyer (David Sturdy), and the Californian (Charles Eversfield), who first brought charges against Mr. Sommers, turned down Mr.

Paper Staff Resigns In Protest

WOLFEVILLE, N.S. (CP)—All but two of the 22-member staff of the student newspaper at Acadia University here resigned Tuesday night to protest the suspension of the newspaper's editor, Donald Angus of Bridgetown, N.S.

The 22-year-old editor was permanently suspended by the students' judicial committee Monday for an article that appeared Jan. 30 in the weekly Acadia Athenaeum.

The staffers signed a petition to resign "until such time as the decision of the student judicial committee is revoked and the original editor-in-chief is returned to office."

The article's author, Robert Flander, 27, of North Sydney, N.S., was barred from the campus for the rest of the year.

Dr. Kirkconnell branded the article, titled "Paradoxically Speaking," as "foul blasphemy."

GAGLARDI LOOKS AHEAD

Nuclear-Powered Flights to City?

Nuclear-powered flights between Victoria and Vancouver were envisaged Tuesday by Highways Minister Gagliardi in an address to the Kiwanis Club.

The minister predicted vast industrial employment in British Columbia with a network of communications making conventional Victoria-Vancouver plane flights "as obsolete as getting to Nanaimo by horse."

"I think it won't be any more than five years," he said, "before they will be picking you up anywhere in Vancouver and dropping you anywhere in Victoria by nuclear power."

TOUGHED ALL BASIS

The volatile minister switched in quick succession from transportation to labor relations and foreign trade to Sunday school progress in his Calgary Temple in Kamloops 1900 pupils and "biggest in the Interior."

Labor and management should co-operate, he said, to enable British Columbia to sell goods on the world market at a competitive price.

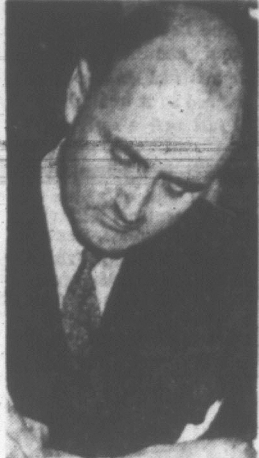

He warned of tough competition from Russia in world markets.

"Both (labor and management) must of necessity get together now we are an export country."

WHY ALL FUSS?

He lashed out at those who have condemned the government's handling of the Wenner-Gren Peace River development.

"We didn't do anything

ROBERT BONNER
... "important principles."

GEORGE GREGORY

GORDON GIBSON
... he knew.

Bonner's proposal for a police enquiry, he said.

Create Damage

Mr. Bonner said the pair sought a judicial inquiry but left with him the consideration of what should be done in connection with their charges.

Then, the day following, Mr. Sturdy made it clear "no opportunity would be given to the government to establish the truth or falsity of the allegations."

The matter was to be raised before the late chief justice Gordon Sloan in four days.

Mr. Bonner said this made him believe Mr. Sturdy's intention was not to establish fact but to create "the greatest possible damage to the minister concerned."

He sent a wire to Mr. Sturdy ending with: "In circumstances your unsupported document and your suggestion of criminal conspiracy or activity by directors and managers of seven companies seems far-fetched."

As a result of subsequent investigations and conclusion of the recent trial, he said, he feels "more justified than ever in the skepticism which I expressed three years ago."

During that period, both members of the House and the general public seem to have lost sight of the original allegation that five timber companies were receiving special favors as a result of benefit received by the minister.

"May I say with firmness that with exception of the company dealt with at trial, such a proposition has not been established," said the attorney-general.

'Utterly False'

Mr. Gregory "next attempts to make a great deal of the suggestion that only three people knew of the substance of the statutory declaration. This suggestion is utterly false."

Mr. Sturdy had told the attorney-general the declaration had been discussed with counsel for the Sloan commission and earlier it had been discussed with another Vancouver lawyer, Ronald Howard.

The attorney-general believed Gordon Gibson, former MLA for Lillooet, "was informed on this subject long before I was."

He thought it had also been divulged to a member of a Vancouver newspaper staff.

"It would appear... I was about the last to be informed."

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Gregory implied it was wrong for the attorney-general to take the matter up with Mr. Sommers, which he did Dec. 8.

"In view of the fact that evidence was deliberately withheld in the course of the Dec. 7 interview and did not come forward until approximately two months later, it leads to the inevitable conclusion that to ask (Sommers) for an explanation was both a logical and proper thing to do..."

The fact that Mr. Sommers then launched a civil suit for slander and libel against Mr. Sturdy, Mr. Gregory had suggested, "somehow implies an incorrect course of action on my part," continued Mr. Bonner.

Right to Know

"Whether innocent or guilty," he went on, "Sommers was entitled to know with what he had been specifically accused, and he received that information."

Mr. Bonner recalled that Mr. Gregory said Sommers "used his knowledge in an action for personal gain."

"This is a barefaced misstatement of fact," said the attorney-general.

He explained that any award in a libel and slander suit does not represent personal gain, but compensation for injury suffered.

Then Mr. Gregory had said the attorney-general did nothing for almost two months.

Lighthouse Jobs Awarded Island Firms

Two Vancouver Island firms have been awarded contracts for additions to lighthouse installations in the Queen Charlotte Islands inner passage area.

Johnson and Hobbs, Victoria, will build a two-bedroom dwelling at Scarlett Point light station. Contract is for $25,200.

McGinnis Bros., Alert Bay, tendered $22,894 for construction of a similar building at Pulteney Point light station.

Scarlett Point is on Balaklava Island, Pulteney Point on Malcolm Island. Both are light and fog alarm stations, put into service in 1905.

and not the opposition, when I directed that police investigation take place," said Mr. Bonner.

A royal commission, he said, is not an appropriate means for establishing innocence or guilt of an accused person.

When a royal commission was set, "it was not established in the minds of the departmental advisers... that this was in fact a criminal matter."

Later, "A more appropriate course of action was recommended and criminal proceedings were instituted."

"Looking back on the entire matter, I would say that important principles were considered and adhered to, notwithstanding allegations of delay and everything else which the opposition has stated."

"The principles... are all the more important when the subject matter becomes fogged by wild political discussion."

"The first principle is a man does not deserve to be placed under police investigation or to become answerable to a Royal Commission save when his accusers support their charges by all evidence which may be in their possession."

'Inexcusable'

"The failure of Eversfield to bring his material to the attention of the Lord Commission, his silence on the subject for two years, that Mr. Sturdy should keep such a matter to himself for three months and deliberately fail to place his evidence in official channels, an act apparently condoned by the honorable member from Victoria, are inexcusable."

"Secondly, even in the midst of such charges as these, if a man believes his reputation is in issue in respect of allegations which might be criminal in import, the Crown is nevertheless not justified in setting aside his civil remedy by issuing an indictment, except upon the clearest evidence consistent with the guilt of the accused and inconsistent with any other reasonable interpretation."

"Thirdly, the publication of a police report is not the means of establishing either the guilt or the innocence of an individual. The question of guilt or innocence depends solely upon due process of law, a man in any event being presumed innocent until the contrary is shown in lawful trial.

"And finally, this goes to the question of Royal Commission as against police inquiry. In criminal proceedings, the Crown must gather its evidence lawfully and not by means which, in themselves, would tend either to prejudice the matters at issue or an indictment to follow, or by means which would prejudice the safeguards otherwise provided by law for individuals accused of criminal offences. The gathering of evidence by commission for criminal proceedings, expeditious as this procedure may appear, cannot really be justified."

"The member from Victoria makes much of the fact that members of the opposition demanded a judicial inquiry into the forestry allegations rather than a police inquiry."

'I Was Correct'

"In view of the result of the recent trial, I think it must be obvious that I was correct

$150,000 Vote Facing Saanich for Park Land

PERSONAL, AUTO AND FURNITURE LOANS

"Victoria's Own Finance Company"

told a parks committee meeting Monday that he will suggest to council the preparation of a property acquisition by-law for the purchase of park lands.

It is expected to meet the full approval of council.

The two major properties Saanich wants to buy are:

A 20-acre Gordon Head beauty spot, the last waterfront property available for miles.

PLAN FOR HOMES

The Gordon Head property is owned by Walter Stanley Moore, who plans eventually to subdivide it for homes.

The waterfront, north of Shore Way Road, includes beaches and attractive small coves. It is at present inaccessible.

The McRae property is now leased for use as a golf course. It is bounded by Maplewood, Cedar Hill, Cedar Hill Cross Road and North Dairy.

The future of the property is uncertain. Saanich has eyed the property for years, fearing it may eventually be broken up for homes when the McRae estate is finally disposed of.

Purchase of the property now would ensure its development as a park.

NOTHING DONE YET

The reeve made his proposal after parks committee chairman Charles Nelles drew attention that Saanich was doing nothing to set aside land for park development.

"If we don't do something quickly all our beauty spots will become housing sites or zoned for business and commercial purposes," he said.

He noted that Saanich would lose the valuable Gordon Head waterfront property because of the lack of funds.

"The owner wants $100,000 for it," he said. "We haven't got that much money."

The waterfront property, he said, was necessary to take care of the needs of the growing population of the Gordon Head basin which would eventually total 24,000.

10 AGAINST 50

"At present this area is served by 10 acres of park land, instead of 50 which this area will eventually need when it is fully developed," he said.

Reeve George Chatterton said there was only one way Saanich could solve its park problems.

"I'm going to suggest to council that we leave ratepayers to decide this matter," he said. "If they are interested in the needs of their children and grandchildren, they will vote in favor of a property acquisition bylaw for parks. It would be a monument to their wisdom and foresight."

The reeve said he felt the McRae property should also be acquired because it was the last large tract of land situated in a rapidly growing urban area.

"If the land is not acquired now," he said, "it might eventually be used for housing when the McRae estate is sold."

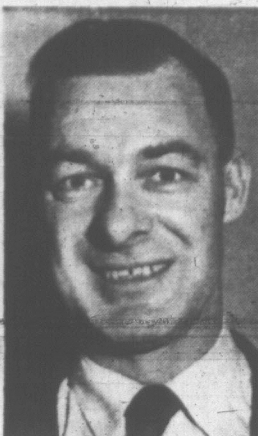

SLOAN MEMORIAL

Coun. Stanley Murphy suggested the provincial government be asked to buy the Gordon Head waterfront property and to set it aside as a memorial to Gordon Sloan, former chief justice of British Columbia and forestry commissioner.

"If the government would at least meet us half way, we might be able to raise sufficient money by selling bonds or by private subscriptions," he said. "At any rate I certainly don't think we should sit back without making some effort to acquire this property."

Patrolman Cleared In Border Shooting

BLAINE, Wash. (AP) — A coroner's jury has exonerated Caron Durel, U.S. border patrolman who shot and killed a 27-year-old transient Saturday. Adopt Frost Flag Urges Socred MLA

Adoption by the federal government of the flag featured on the front page of The Times Monday—a red ensign with 10 maple leaves surrounding the coat-of-arms—was urged in the legislature by Thomas Bate (S.C. Vancouver-Point Grey) Tuesday.

The flag was designed by Ontario Premier Leslie Frost. "The trend across Canada is to recognize the red ensign as our flag. We in B.C. should suggest that the federal government adopt this one," he said, holding up the clipped section of The Times.

"I feel it would meet with approval of the majority of people in Canada."

Mr. Bate was speaking in the legislature in the budget debate.

Vancouver MLA Wants Transfer Of MV Branch

The proposal that the B.C. government shift the provincial motor vehicle branch to Vancouver was voiced again in the legislature Tuesday this time by Thomas Bate (S.C. Vancouver-Point Grey).

He said Vancouver is centre of a population of 600,000 people. In view of this, location there of the MVB would be more efficient and economical.

The Social Credit government has a policy of "efficiency and economy," he stated.

Mr. Bate also supported suggestion of several other members in the Throne Speech debate, that automobile liability insurance should be compulsory. Anyone seeking a licence should first be required to prove he had insurance.

PERSONAL INTEREST

"You shouldn't talk like this, you have a personal interest," objected Gordon Dowding (C.C.F. Burnaby). Mr. Bate admitted he sold insurance, that was why he knew what he was talking about, he added.

Mr. Bate followed a pattern set earlier in the House by some government members in attacking "irresponsible labor leaders."

Mr. Bate said he also favored legislation to outlaw "information picket lines" which he said were "blackmail tactics."

SCOUT RANKS AT 255,993

OTTAWA (CP) — Boy Scout membership in Canada has passed the 250,000 mark, Canadian Boy Scout headquarters announced here Tuesday.

The total membership as of Dec. 31, 1958, was 255,993, an increase of 20,775 over the 1957 total of 237,218.

Navy 'Mother' Receives Honors At Last Rites

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — Maude Leslie, a frail, 72-year-old spinster who was a "mother" to many seamen during the war, was to be buried today with naval honors.

She died Monday in a Hamilton nursing home.

Seamen here called her the "Mother of the Navy."

During the Second World War and the years that followed, Miss Leslie was a familiar figure around HMCS Star, the naval establishment here, and in the railway stations, where she went whenever a draft of sailors left Hamilton. Few of the boys knew much about her. But she gave them cigarettes, candy, kindly words of goodbye, or sound advice.

BRITAIN MAY IMPORT YACHT PLAN FROM U.S.

LONDON (AP) — British yachtsmen may adopt an attitude of "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em," in new plans aimed at winning the America's Cup from the United States.

Four of the wealthier diehards are considering building four 12-metre yachts. The four would compete against each other for the right to challenge the U.S. in 1961.

If the plan sounds familiar, it is. It's the same planning and training procedure the U.S. used in its 16th defence of the cup last year.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA) — Baseball was the first professional outlet for good athletes. Next came golf and then football and basketball. Now they are making careers out of bowling.

You don't have to be a stick-out athlete to bowl well, but William J. Welu — pronounced Way-loo — is something in the way of evidence that it helps.

Billy Welu, winner of the BPAA Individual Match Game Tournament in Buffalo, was offered a contract by the St. Louis Cardinals as a catcher while attending high school in Houston. The tallest big-time bowler at six-foot four-and-a-half, he excelled in basketball, and while earning a B.A. degree in psychology at the University of St. Thomas in Houston shot golf in the low 70's.

But Welu worked his way through school by working at bowling establishments. That gave him an opportunity to practise — three or four hours in the afternoon, and two hours after the joints were closed at night — so by the time he was graduated from St. Thomas in 1954, the young Welu had a fairly good idea of where he was going.

Welu is now called the modern Ned Day and the picture bowler. No one in any line has had a more meteoric rise. He won the ABC doubles title in Seattle with Don McClaren in 1954 while still in college, and was on his way. The youngsters' meeting with McClaren led to his being drafted by the famous Budweiser Beers of St. Louis, where the pair joined Ray Bluth, Don Carter, Pat Patterson and the renowned captain, Whitey Harris, in winning the BPAA team title in 1955-56.

Welu, who won his first tournament at 15, was an All-American from the outset, and his more recently acquired BPAA Individual Match Game championship is comparable to winning the United States Open in golf.

Welu is typical of the new professionals in sports, especially golf, and now bowling. He hasn't much time between assignments but can sandwich in 15 minutes in the Madison Avenue offices of the American Machine and Foundry Company, for which he is not only its star but also salesman and public relations man.

Welu looks and talks about as much like the television idea of a Texas as Tarzan. He is accompanied by his own press agent—himself—and he charms you to a greater extent than the slickest receptionist.

Welu, who hasn't yet had time to get married, is wealthy at 26. He has averaged $30,000 a year since leaving college.

"With this championship, I should make $50,000," he explained, softly. "It depends on how well we exploit and sell it." He'll do that himself, and can be depended upon to do a job.

Welu owns lanes in Houston and Los Angeles. In 1957, he flew more than 150,000 miles for tournaments, clinics and exhibitions and appearing on television and at banquets. He gave considerable of that up last year to concentrate on the competitive end. In addition to his duties with AMF, he is a member of the Falstaff team in St. Louis, 1958 ABC champions, and a peddler for that brewery.

Is there anything scientific about bowling?

"All I can tell you," said Welu, "is what I've learned in the last four years, or rather what I've swiped from others."

"The secret? Well, outside of the basics, good footwork and armwringing along a straight line, it's how to keep the roll on the ball and playing the different angles and lanes, adjusting to strange or neutral lanes."

Welu went into a pitch about bowling that the guy in the grey flannel suit couldn't even approach. The last figure was 22,000,000 million bowlers, but that isn't half of it, and elaborate lanes are springing up across the land.

"I picked the right field," concluded Billy Welu. "Those professional football players are nuts."

Shirley Called 'Pro' After Basketball Tour

VANCOUVER (CP) — Shirley Topley, 24-year-old basketball star with Vancouver senior "A" women's team, has had her eligibility as an amateur questioned as a result of a globe-trotting tour with a United States all-star team.

Ruth Wilson, second vice-president of the Canadian Women's Basketball Association, said Tuesday the Ontario Ladies' Basketball Association has filed an official protest and Miss Topley's amateur card has been set aside until the matter is dealt with.

Miss Wilson said she doubts if Miss Topley will be considered as a professional. A letter forthcoming from William Jones, president of the International Basketball Federation, should clarify her amateur status, she said.

Shirley returned from the three-month basketball tour on Sunday night, having played in New York, New Jersey, Maine, North Carolina, Georgia and Florida in the United States, then in Havana, Haiti, Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Dutch West Indies and several countries in South America.

She brought with her a letter from the team coach, a previous letter from Jones and a letter from A. J. Saperstein, who promoted the tour, which indicated she was not subsidized beyond permissible expenses.

Curling Heads Rolling Along Trail to Quebec

By The Canadian Press

One western province has settled the question of who is its champion curler. The other three are still working on the problem.

Meanwhile, heads have been rolling.

Matt Baldwin, 1958 Canadian champion, did not reach even the Alberta finals for the first time in four years. He was knocked out of competition last week in the northern Alberta playoffs.

In British Columbia, greenhorn Barry Naimark defeated the favorites to win the provincial title. The 27-year-old Naimark, formerly of Calgary, said he entered the playoffs for a taste of heavy competition and had no idea he would win.

REPRESENT B.C.

Naimark will represent B.C. at the national final in Quebec City March 26. The first western champion declared, he is a member of the Vancouver Curling Club.

Alberta's champion will be crowned Saturday when Herb Olson of Edmonton and George Menzies of Picture Butte clash in Grande Prairie. The finals begin Friday.

Olson upset Baldwin to win the northern Alberta title.

Menzies won the southern Alberta playoffs despite a strong bid by favored Art Simpson of Bassano, the southern champion last year.

Manitoba began its playoffs Monday with a two-group, 16-rink competition and continued the giant-killing. Al Gowlock, twice holder of the Canadian and Manitoba titles, was eliminated in the fifth draw Tuesday when he was beaten 10-6 by Dr. Dick Bird of Winnipeg.

WIN IN 1938, 1953

The Dauphin veteran won the Canadian crown in 1938 and 1953.

Howie Wood, Jr., of Winnipeg, another former Manitoba champion, suffered his first defeat Tuesday when edged 13-12 by Jack Caldwell of Hamilton.

Saskatchewan's southern and northern divisions were still busy today trying to pick champions. At North Battleford, Gary Thode of Saskatoon reached the A and B group semifinals Tuesday and was the only undefeated rink after the morning draw. Gordon Grimes of Eston, Saskatchewan's defending champion, had reached the finals of the B event.

Two rinks were dominating the southern Saskatchewan playoffs Tuesday. Leading were Don Clarke and Ernie Richardson, both of Regina, and undefeated with five victories each.

New Deal Planned In Softball Loops

Senior "A" and Senior "B" Softball Leagues ceased to exist in B.C. following a meeting of the B.C. Softball Association in Vancouver last week-end.

This in essence is the report returned to Victoria by Jim Lackie, local representative to the B.C. Association.

The move was instituted upon a motion by Lackie and passed unanimously by the provincial group.

It followed a decision brought down at a gathering, last Thursday, of the Victoria Softball Association at which there was only one dissenting vote cast.

The action has amalgamated both "A" and "B" leagues into a single open association, making the former four-team Victoria Senior "A" League and the local six-team Senior "B" loop a single 10-club circuit.

When playoff time comes, all 10 teams will participate with the top four teams meeting to decide which will enter provincial and western Canada "A" class playoffs and the remaining six playing off to decide a like Senior "B" representative.

The move was made to ease the tendency of lower class teams of packing or "pirating" senior calibre players and sweeping their division.

MAY HELP SUPPORT

It will also standardize authority throughout the city and province with one governing body handling the group. Lackie further expects that the joining will prove an answer to a lack of fan support, experienced recently by both former divisions, by presenting them with a better class of ball with many new faces in action.

Games are expected to be played at both Heywood and Central parks, if they are available.

Kerr Decides Impost Too Much for 'Table'

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Owner Travis M. Kerr switched signals Tuesday and abruptly declared Round Table out of the $50,000-added San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Saturday.

The wealthy owner said he would not accept the almost unprecedented high weight of 135 pounds assigned Round Table.

When the weights were announced Monday there were no complaints from the stable.

Ed's Point Spree Beats Warriors

Dorohoy Sparks Calgary Win; Royals Triumph

By The Canadian Press
Calgary Stampede continued their winning ways in the Western Hockey League Tuesday night with a 4-3 win over visiting Winnipeg Warriors.

It was Calgary's eighth consecutive win over the Warriors this season and moved them 10 points ahead of second-place Edmonton Flyers in the prairie division.

Seattle Totems maintained their 10-point lead over second-place Vancouver Canucks on the coast with a 1-1 overtime tie against the Canucks in Vancouver.

New Westminster Royals beat Edmonton, 3-2, in Edmonton to gain ground on the fourth-place Victoria Cougars in the coast division.

INCREASED HIS LEAD

Calgary's win saw Eddie Dorohoy score three goals to increase his individual scoring race with 87 points. Calgary's other scorer was Lou Jankowski.

Warrior scorers were Warren Hynes, with two, and Barrie Ross.

Warriors' loss kept them in third place on the prairies, a point ahead of last place Saskatoon Quakers, who were idle Tuesday.

At Vancouver, the Totems and Canucks battled for more than 51 minutes without scoring. Then Don Chupka put Totems ahead at 11:43 of the third period.

A late goal by Les Lilley evened the score, and the clubs fought through the overtime period without registering.

Guy Fielder, who assisted on Chupka's goal, moved to within seven points of Dorohoy.

CITY HOOP PLAYOFFS SWITCHED TO OAK BAY

A change of venue has been set for tonight's second games of men's and women's senior "B" city basketball playoffs.

Half Way House will meet Farmer Construction and Victoria Bs will meet Naval Vets at the Cranmore Road gym of Oak Bay High School in second games of best-of-three series.

Half Ways opened their men's playoff last week with a one-sided win over Farmers and Bs also led the women's series by one game.

Vets and Bs meet in the opener at 7, while Half Ways and Farmers play at 8:30 p.m.

Don to Watch Second Game?

Don Ashbee may be sitting on the sidelines at Nanaimo Civic Ice Arena Saturday when the Clippers host Navy in the second game of the Vancouver Island intermediate hockey playoffs.

Ashbee was assessed a minor slashing penalty at 17:49 of the second period of the first game of the best-of-five series, Tuesday night, in Memorial Arena. Nanaimo won, 11-8.

Taking umbrage at the decision by referee Johnny Smith, Ashbee is alleged to have pushed and then hit the official. He was assessed a match misconduct penalty, barring him from further play in the game.

CHANGED PENALTY

A subsequent report to Ivan Temple, president of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association, changed the major penalty to a match penalty, which could bar Ashbee for a minimum of three games and a maximum of one year.

Temple has reported to the British Columbia A.H.A. president, Leo Atwell, in Nelson, and a final decision on the case will come from that quarter.

Before being sent to the cooler, Ashbee had scored two goals for the winners, along with Joe Zuback. Arnie Dugan led the team with three, while Earl Robinson, Bill Sutherland, Bruno Furlan and Don Smith each scored once.

Royal Roads Athletes Set for Trophy Meet

The Claxton Trophy, emblematic of Canadian Services College sports supremacy will be the target for 35 officer cadets of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, February 20 and 21.

The team will travel to the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., for the annual games competition which includes basketball, swimming, boxing, volleyball and gymnastics.

College Militaire Royale de Saint-Jean will be the third competing school at the meet.

Royal Roads held the trophy, presently in the keeping of the host school, in 1956.

UNHAPPY NEWS FOR FREELOADERS

With All Those Buttons, How Can Casey Miss?

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees, who make it a habit of being fustiest with the mostest, stayed in stride today with what amounts to the largest pinball machine in the world.

This dandy item is a new $300,000 electric scoreboard which will be in operation by opening day. It is, naturally, the largest sign structure ever built in the United States.

The board will be 113 feet wide, 45 feet high on the sides and 75 feet tall in the centre and, with all of this perched above the centre-field bleachers, the tippy top will be 110 feet above street level.

This is, of course, bad news to Precinct 44 in the Bronx and apartment house dwellers beyond. In previous years the gendarmes on the day of a game roped off a section of the elevated platform beyond centre-field so that you couldn't get a bargain view for 15 cents. You'd be surprised how many cops it required to keep that little bitty space cleared. They couldn't do a thing about the binocular-armed folks in the apartments.

But this new electronic marvel takes care of all the free loaders, even the "working men" in blue. For it will practically block out the heavens. Convertible for football, the board contains 11,210 lamps, enough to light a small town, with 115,000 watts; 115 miles of electric cable, which is enough to wire a destroyer (a very fitting analogy when discussing the scourges of the American League); has a total face area of 4,572 square feet plus a few odd inches, and will be controlled by 4,860 push buttons.

This immediately led to the cry of "Bring back Joe McCarthy." McCarthy, during his tenure at the Yankee helm, was highly incensed when Jimmy Dykes called him a "push button manager." The Dykes theory was that, when the Yankees needed a new player, all they did was push buttons and bring them up from the farm clubs.

So if Stengel blows the pennant this year with all those new buttons it can be predicted confidently and authoritatively that the old professor will get the sack.

A novel feature of this new board will be a changeable message area in the bottom of the centre tower. This area, with electrically controlled letters, has seven lines with eight letters to each line. The letters are each two feet high and a message can be relayed from the press box and inscribed for public inspection within 20 seconds.

The message can say something such as: "Mantle's home run his 61st." Such a message, of course, is merely illustrative. It is suspected if he ever does, the letters will be plastered clean across the whole board. It is also suspected that he never will.

"Anything of baseball importance or of national importance can be flashed there immediately," said the Yankees.

This means that "Eisenhower elected president," though with only eight letters across there becomes a headline-writing problem which the Yankees can worry about.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Members of the Central Saanich council undoubtedly gave hunters a break when they decided not to proceed with a proposed bylaw which would have banned shooting in the municipality.

They also gave themselves a chance to acquire a minor measure of fame by drafting a set of regulations that can be used as a pattern by areas facing similar problems in the future.

It is to the councillors' credit that they didn't take the easy way out. They selected a course that will enable them to make the wisest use of the municipality's land and game resources. Too often in the past, B.C. municipalities faced with a spreading population have operated on the idea that either all or none of their territory should be open to shooting without considering workable compromises.

It's a cinch that Central Saanich councillors face some tricky problems and must throw a tighter loop on shooting in settled areas. Safety of residents and rights of land owners must come first, but outdoor recreation plays an important role in modern living. There is still a considerable amount of Central Saanich territory where hunting is not only practical but is desired by farmers, who can be expected to suffer from increased crop damage by game birds if shooting is prohibited.

Petitions from farmers and proposals submitted by the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association probably had a lot to do with the stay of execution. And, working with farmer and sportsmen groups, the council should be able to draw up a shooting control plan that can be adjusted each season to suit changing conditions.

Permit System Is a Potent Weapon

Central Saanich already possesses some of the most effective weapons to combat hunting troubles and can be expected to insist on stricter enforcement of existing regulations, which have been little more than a threat to potential violators.

The current permit system, in which a hunter must have written permits from owners of properties on which he intends to hunt—endorsed by the municipality, is a potent weapon. Through it, residents should be able to control hunting on their lands—if it is enforced—and the municipality can refuse to sanction permits to hunt in settled areas.

Since enforcement and adequate penalties for violations are the keys to success for any set of laws, thought might be given to charging a set fee for endorsement of each permit and using money collected in this way to pay a part-time special officer, who would check hunters at suitable intervals.

Also worth considering would be a regulation prohibiting discharge of firearms within a specified distance of public roads and residential buildings.

They may not be able to allow hunting for more than another two or three years, but at least the councillors are giving it a good try. And it might be surprising what they can accomplish—if they can arrange adequate enforcement.

ANGLING BRIEFS—Although steelhead runs appear to be tapering off, anglers at the Cowichan and Nanaimo rivers have enjoyed another good week. A number of big ironheads were beached at Cowichan over the weekend, including a pair of 18-pounders. . . . husky trout are helping make things interesting in several sections of the Cowichan. . . . a few steelies are being taken from the Sooke River and, although reports are skimpy, the San Juan and Gordon rivers are usually worth a try at this time of year. . . . trollers are taking trout at Shawnigan Lake, where orange-bodied wet flies should be hot items within a couple of weeks. . . .

Spring salmon off Oak Bay, which were most numerous near Trial Island a while back, are now hitting best around Discovery and Chatham islands. . . . if you try waters off William Head, Macaulay Point or Oak Bay, be prepared for big fish. . . . several anglers have come in with broken tackle and a pair of 24-pounders have been weighed in at Oak Bay Boathouse in the past week. . . . grise were busy grabbing lures near the weed line at Cowichan Bay Sunday. . . . grise are numerous off Crofton, but hard to fool. . . .

Fishing at Saanich Inlet has perked up again. . . . six to 10-pound springs are active around the mouth of Tod Inlet and near the island at Goldstream. . . . best grise catches are coming from around the Stone House and White Lady, but the small salmon are also hitting briskly at times in Indian Bay and near the Goldstream end of the inlet. . . .

Larry Laroche leads the February competition of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association with 143.5 pounds taken at the Goldstream end. . . . winner of the January contest was R. G. Lyon, who took the first button-sized fish of the year—a 23.5-pounder at Tod Inlet—and claimed his first VSIAA button. . . . an unconfirmed report says a 24-pound spring was taken at Tod Inlet Tuesday morning. . . . and if it helps in your selection of lures, most salmon appear to be feeding on needlefish.

Tide to Test All-Star Side

Preparing for a month-long exhibition tour of Japan, starting Feb. 22, the B.C. representative English rugby side will be at Macdonald Park Saturday for a tune-up tussle with Victoria's Crimson Tide.

It will be the second practice game for the 25-man "four team." The first was played last Saturday against UBC at Varsity Stadium and the stars lost by an 8-6 count.

Victoria coach Alex Macdonald has expressed hopes that the all-stars are heading for another defeat and his club appears capable of giving the tourists a rough afternoon.

Spearheading the Victoria attack from the forward line will be front-ranker Harry Turner. In Macdonald's words, "The most accomplished forward presently playing in British Columbia, and possibly the best we've ever had."

Three Victoria members of the British Columbia Repls will be turning out in Crimson Tide colors Saturday.

In the second row of the scrum will be six-foot, three-inch, 230-pound Chris Pollard. Peter Clarke, six-foot two and one-half inches and 195 pounds, will be eighth man.

Don Burgess, the third Victorian picked for the tour, will play fullback in place of regular George Wilson.

Lynn Patterson will hook for the Victoria team, with Sonny Vickery, Mel Davison, Ken Bridge and Tillman Briggs as supporting forwards.

In the backfield, Victoria will have scrum-half Gary Webster, stand-off Ray Calton, centres Bob Abbott and Jere Mitchell and wings Charlie Bishop and Leroy Bond.

The Repls' humiliation at UBC was largely due to the playing of Varsity stand-off Ted Hunt, fullback Neal Henderson and forward Gerry McGavin.

This week the student trio will be with the Repls and tour manager Dave Mackenzie believes "they will be the difference between losing and winning in Victoria."

Toughest Tests Start With Yawata

The backfield of the British Columbia team Saturday will be Henderson, Hunt; wings, Glen Stover and George Pull; centres, Bruce McEachern and Max Howell; and scrum-half Norm Blake.

In the forward line, coach and assistant manager Ken Banks will have David Bruce Thomas, Pete Von Harten, Greig Bjarneson, Ossie Gjerdaalen, Doug Muir, McGavin, Tom Christie and team captain Buzz Moore.

The Repls will play eight games while on tour, the first Feb. 26 against a Meiji University team at the Chichibu grounds.

The second will be March 1 against Waseda University and the third, March 4, against Keio University.

The fourth game of the series will be the start of their roughest competition, matching the Repls against a team from Yawata Iron Foundry at Kokura March 8. March 11, the Canadians will meet a team from the Kinki-Nihon Railway at Kobe.

An all-Japan team will test the Repls March 15 at Osaka and March 22 at Tokyo. March 18 they will play a combined Kanto team made up of Tokyo players not picked for any of the other teams.

Peter Grantham was lost to the B.C. side in their exhibition against UBC when he tore ligaments in the side of his ankle and was replaced by Von Harten.

Only three of the players, Howell, Clarke and Taylor, are not native B.C. rugby players. Howell came to Canada from Australia, Clarke from England and Taylor from Scotland.

Game time Saturday is 2 p.m.

Lanky 'Litz' Sets Torrid Point Pace

MONTREAL (CP) — Big Eddie Litzberger of Chicago Black Hawks is picking up points so fast these days it's enough to give the National Hockey League's scoring leaders the creeps.

The lanky Chicagoan harvested six points in the Hawks' three winning efforts last week and now is only five points behind Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers and three behind the feverish Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal-Canadiens.

The league's official statistics, released today, show Bathgate with 64 points, Geoffrion with 62 and Litzberger with 59.

During the week's play Bathgate broke a tie with Geoffrion, counting one goal and three assists. Geoffrion, who has extracted only one goal in 19 games, came up with two assists last week.

Bathgate now has a total of 29 goals and 35 assists; Geoffrion a 20-42 count. The New Yorker is setting the pace for goal-scorers and Geoffrion heads the assist-producers.

Scots Invite Brier Champs

TORONTO (UPI) — Canada's curling champions, winners of the forthcoming Macdonald Brier, will be invited to meet the Scottish Champions in a best-of-five international series in Scotland next month.

The invitation was extended to Ken Watson, an executive of the Dominion Curling Association, who has just returned from a trip to Scotland.

Maroons Grab Second Place

Harvey Stevenson fired three goals and Larry McCann one Wednesday at Memorial Arena as Maroons beat Royals 4-2 to take over second spot in the bantam-division of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

Royal scorers were Jim Ogilvie and Brian Chamberlain.

New Contract for Sid Abel

DETROIT (UPI) — Sid Abel has been rehired to coach the Detroit Red Wings for the 1959-60 National League season.

General manager Jack Adams said the decision to rehire Abel at this time was a vote of confidence for the former Red Wing great.

"It will let Sid know where he stands and give him a chance to look ahead to next season," Adams said. "He has done a wonderful job for us in the period of rebuilding."

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Report of the sale of four cargoes of about 1,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to Japan highlighted action today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Otherwise export interest in Canadian grains was slow.

Some buying in oats and barley was attributed to domestic shippers in connection with feed supplies. A few export orders also appeared but no business was reported. There was inquiry for barley from overseas sources.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were up 1/2 cent from Tuesday.

tristry becomes instantly recognizable... only the amazingly low price of these recordings prevents us from revealing their names. If you can imagine the combined magnificence of the world's greatest artists playing together for the first time, you can appreciate the infinite cultural treasures awaiting your family. This is the land where enterprising business firms are always developing ways and means to provide every family with the best things in life at the lowest possible cost. One of the world's largest manufacturers has done just that by bringing the cost of producing and distributing these highest quality WEBSTER RECORDS to a price SO LOW that every family can afford them. This could only be done through the cooperation of your great supermarket chain where distribution costs are kept to an absolute minimum. Nobody was ever able to obtain a complete library of the world's finest music for such a low price. Now take full advantage of the bargain of your lifetime. YOU will receive FREE with each long playing record that you purchase, a richly illustrated "Listeners' Guide," providing a history of the composer along with the story of the music and an illuminating analysis of selected themes and other features of the work. These "Listeners' Guides" are both authoritative and informative, having been written in a down-to-earth, easy-to-understand manner by the world's foremost authorities. Quickly, almost magically, you acquire an understanding of the composer's music far beyond anything you ever dreamed possible. You will not have to "shy" away from discussions of good music; you will not have to be afraid of names like Bach, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky, Schubert. If you did not have time nor the opportunity for fine music when you were younger, you can now catch up with it. Your children and other members of your family will have a cultural advantage that you may have missed. These records and music library in your home will open a new world to you and other members of your family, for the love of fine music is admission to a lifetime of pleasure that will be a blessing all through the years.

'Self Pity' Worst Enemy When Blindness Strikes

By TONY DICKASON

Her cane is a symbol of the conquering spirit.

It is the physical evidence of the spiritual help all those suffering from the disaster of blindness must receive to live complete-as-possible lives.

The lady with "Cane No. 1" is Mrs. Elizabeth Watling, 60, of 3962 Helen Road, president of the 85-member White Cane Club here. She has been blind 27 years following an accident.

To Mrs. Watling, and for persons who realize the handicap of blindness, this is an important seven-day period—White Cane Week, ending Saturday.

It will be marked Saturday by a Canadian National Institute for the Blind tea, at CNIB headquarters, from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. A portion of the money realized goes to the British Empire League for distribution on behalf of the blind in other less fortunate areas of the Commonwealth.

"It is not easy to be blind." These are Mrs. Watling's words.

"One must have spiritual help to overcome the handicap, and at the same time one must think of others who frequently are in a worse position than we are.

"The greatest drawback," said the club president, "is self pity. I know. After my accident I had a year of it."

A devoted church member for more than 30 years, she even dropped her church attendance for 12 months in reaction to her new affliction.

But today, Mrs. Watling sings in the choir of St. Columba's Anglican Church, is a vice-president of the woman's auxiliary, a church committee member, a member of the executive of the B.C. section, Canadian Council of the Blind and chairman of the council's education committee.

66 FELLOW GROUPS

The activities of the White Cane Club here are paralleled in the 66 similar clubs across Canada.

The local group plays cribbage and table bowling on Monday, has the weekly meeting at CNIB headquarters Wednesday, engages in alley bowling Saturday; holds a dance in the CNIB auditorium each second Friday, and in the spring has walking tours through Beacon Hill Park and other interesting areas around Greater Victoria. There is also a meeting each Friday of the reading group.

So, all in all, activity is fairly constant in a quiet way. It must be in a quiet way; most members are elderly.

Club membership last year was 99. It has since dwindled by 14.

"We have lost a lot in death," said Mrs. Watling. The club will mark its 15th anniversary May 29.

Embassy Surrounded

TUNIS, Tunisia (Reuters)—Tunisian police surrounded the French embassy here Tuesday night after a Tunisian cabinet minister accused French officials of giving "material and moral support" to an espionage network in the country.

MRS. ELIZABETH WATLING
... lady with cane No. 1.

Alberta Secreds Reject Hansard

EDMONTON (CP)—A Liberal motion introduced Tuesday calling on the Alberta government to establish a provincial Hansard or verbatim record of legislative debates was defeated by the Social Credit majority for the fourth time in four years.

But there were signs the idea is gaining support among Social Credit members of the house. Two of the 36 Social Credit members—Edgar H. Gerhart, Edmonton and Arthur Dixon, Calgary—voted with the Opposition in favor of the motion.

Fatal Fall From Horse 'Accidental'

Death of a 13-year-old Sooke girl thrown from a horse Saturday was ruled accidental at an informal inquiry conducted Monday by deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore.

Accident happened on Kangaroo Road when a horse the girl was riding reared and threw her on the ground.

Funeral was held at Sands Funeral Home Tuesday and burial was in Hatley Memorial Gardens, Colwood.

Sir William Herschel, famed British astronomer who died in 1822, was trained as a professional musician.

Wake Up Tomorrow Morning* Without Arthritis-Rheumatism Pains...Or Pay Nothing!

CONSISTENT RESULTS PROVED IN THREE LEADING HOSPITALS

Three leading U.S. hospitals have just completed over a year of extensive clinical tests with a brilliant new discovery, developed by an eminent doctor—a professor of medicine at a leading medical college. The results have been very "beyond all expectations" for the vast majority of sufferers. Users, taking it at night for the very first time, reported they woke up in the morning without arthritic pain; that the pain of stiffness and swelling and pain in crippled joints soon started to be relieved and they could move around more freely once again within a week or two. The name of the discovery is Sustamin 2-12.

* Take Sustamin 2-12 once every 12 hours as directed on label for continuous all day...all night pain relief! Our Sustamin 2-12 with this amazing Money Back Guarantee: Take according to directions. You MUST wake up tomorrow morning without pain... enjoy blessed relief all day, all night... find pain-induced stiffness, of joints relieved in 3 days... or return unused contents for full refund. $180,000 for Roads Allotted in Saanich

Five-Year Plan Making Progress

A $180,000 road improvement and construction program for 1959 has been approved by Saanich council. Part of the program will be paid for out of general revenue and the rest under the local improvement plan whereby ratepayers share the cost.

Reeve George Chatterton said today the program is part of a five-year plan instituted last year to bring urban and semi-urban roads up to standard.

The program was instituted mainly to cut down the high cost of repairing and maintaining roads which have fallen into disrepair over the years.

It cost the municipality $70,000 to patch, repair and oil gravel roads in urban areas last year.

"Once we bring our roads up to standard our maintenance costs will be less than half they are today," said the reeve. "If we don't do anything our maintenance costs will continue to rise."

PAVING, CURBS, DRAINS
The 1959 road program includes:

The paving of nine miles of gravel roads at a cost of $70,000;

The reconstruction and installation of curbs and drains on Quadra from Tolmie Avenue to Cloverdale and Richmond from Newton Street to Lansdowne, $77,000;

Repairs and the sealing of 10 miles of roads in the urban area north of Alpha and Tolmie Streets. The total costs for this work will be borne by ratepayers in the area. They each will pay $7 for one year only.

The reeve said the gravel roads to be paved this year are mostly all situated in subdivisions which were developed in the past 10 years.

The work will be carried under 10-year local improvement bylaws.

SHARE COST
Saanich will institute the bylaws and ratepayers will vote on them. A small share of the costs will be borne by the corporation for this work.

"In five years we hope to have all our gravel roads in urban areas asphalted and sealed," he said. "There won't be anymore of these roads as subdivisions now have to pave all their streets."

The reeve said council had other road construction projects in view but were waiting to see if sufficient funds would be available in this year's budget.

NIGHT BUS CUTBACK UNDER STUDY BY BCE

A B.C. Electric Company official today said speculation that Greater Victoria evening transit services will be curtailed is "premature."

William Mearns, head of the company's Vancouver Island operations, made the comment following disclosure Tuesday that the company will cut evening services in Vancouver by 20 to 30 per cent.

Mr. Mearns said the situation here is under study "but we don't know yet ourselves what will happen."

Escort Problems If Ferries Stop

Stoppage of direct ferry service from Victoria to the mainland this month presents a problem for Victoria city police, who face a record year of escorting mental patients to Essondale.

When CPR ferries cease running Feb. 25, police will have no suitably direct means of taking patients off the Island.

Any alternative method of transportation is bound to make patient escorts more expensive.

The present system is discreet, safe and reasonably quick, involving a minimum loss of work time for constables who perform the escorts.

Police usually take patients—one at a time—to Vancouver on the afternoon ferry, returning themselves by the overnight ferry in time for duty next morning.

Under existing arrangements the city is responsible for taking all mental patients to hospital at Essondale, although the RCMP provides escort for prisoners going to mainland penal institutions. For this duty the RCMP generally employs its air division, which has an aircraft based at Patricia Bay.

It is unlikely, because of the extra time and trips involved, that the RCMP would agree to take on the extra job of transporting mental patients. There are reservations about sending mental patients aloft, mostly for safety reasons.

This and possible embarrassment to other passengers is given as reason why commercial airlines will not accept mental patients.

Chief Constable John Blackstock said it may be necessary to use patrol wagon transport from here to Nanaimo ferry service.

In 1958 city police took 28 mental patients to the mainland and recently, possibly due to poor employment conditions, there have been as many as one a day.

"The way it's going, this looks like a record year," the chief said.

MONTE ROBERTS

Mr. Victor Murray, the friend of all the people who conducts a column for the Winnipeg Tribune, has received a letter from a constituent.

As if this were not surprising enough, the letter is about women.

What is more, the aforementioned constituent has been reading a book.

And this book, the constituent tells Mr. Murray, states that men are afraid of women, have been afraid of women since the dim distant past.

This, according to the book, is the reason men have been so reluctant to grant women equal rights, such as the right to vote and the right to give up their seats in a crowded bus.

And Mr. Murray's constituent asks, is this so? And if so, does it mean the men of Switzerland are scared skinny of the women and thus will not let them vote?

Mr. Murray, friend of all the people that he is, gives his constituent a noncommittal answer, obviously because he does not wish to shock mankind with the truth.

But I have no such scruples.

Yes, Virginia, men are scared of women.

And because of this, men do their best to keep privileges away from women.

Even when men reluctantly give in, they try to save their egos. When they allow women the privilege of wearing trousers, for instance, they insist on calling these trousers "slacks." (Although in most cases they aren't very slack, especially in the back.)

And when a man grants his woman the privilege of a night-out with the girls, he pretends it is because he planned on going bowling, anyway. But he knows in his heart HE is going bowling because SHE is having a night out with the girls.

Yes, men are scared of women, and for that reason are determined to grind women under their heels.

The only reason they don't succeed is, they are too frightened.

Why, I know some men who are so frightened of their women they even deny them the privilege of doing the dishes.

Not that I have ever experienced...

NAMED A VICE-PRESIDENT of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild today was Capt. G. O. Hughes, 2954 Cedar Hill. Other vice-president appointments were Capt. W. J. Sweeting, of Victoria; Capt. W. E. Spiller, of Kelowna; and Capt. J. N. Thom, of Prince Rupert. Capt. S. C. McGilvray, of Vancouver, long-time Canadian Pacific coastal skipper, succeeds Capt. Roy Barry as guild president.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Max J. C. Fecht, 914 Oliver, and Ernest A. Harbour, 4 Hiberson, $35 each for careless driving.

'MISMASH' WEATHER THURSDAY

A mixture of rain and snow Thursday morning is predicted for Victoria by weatherman William Mackie.

A storm moving southward from the Gulf of Alaska will give increasing cloudiness after midnight, then rain and snow and finally rain alone Thursday afternoon. There will be more snow in cold areas and high ground, Mr. Mackie said.

Temperatures will range between 34 degrees overnight and 38 degrees Thursday.

New Charges Read Against Man, Wife

Two new false pretences charges were read to a man and his wife in city police court today in connection with recovery of about $2,000 worth of goods Saturday.

John W. Willison and Frances Jean Raymus, both of 1785 Ross, pleaded guilty to both charges, involving $530 in goods obtained from a pawnshop at 4415 Government Street, and Stelck's Hardware Stores, 2680 Quadra, on Jan. 10.

Tuesday both pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences involving $214.05 worth of goods, property of Arthur Loof, 1314 Government, also Jan. 10.

RAID
City and Saanich detectives conducted a raid Saturday night in which a large quantity of goods ranging from electrical wiring to a surveyor's instrument was seized.

Det. Richard Berry told Magistrate William Ostler today the accused gave a worthless cheque for $400 worth of items, including a surveyor's instrument, telescope, typewriter and tape recorder, at Island Trading Co.

He said they gave a worthless cheque for $130 worth of household goods, tools and wiring obtained from Stelck's. Willison and his wife were remanded to Tuesday for probation report, ordered after their previous appearance. Willison also pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of false pretences involving a worthless cheque for food at Lake Hill Food Market, 3949 Quadra, totalling $22.17.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel. Film on the reclamation of scrap metal will be shown.

Optimists: 12.10 p.m., Pacific Club.

Oak Bay Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel; speaker, Professor C. S. Burchill of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads.

Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen Club: James Bay Hotel, 7 p.m.

Minister to Meet, Dine UBC Students on Friday

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today he will meet a delegation of six students from University of British Columbia Friday.

The UBC students are concerned with the probability tuition fees will be increased because the new B.C. budget indicates grants to universities will be only a quarter of the $2,200,000 required next year.

The student organization has conducted a letters campaign to all members of the House and a march on the legislature by 208 lobbyists has been under consideration.

The minister said he would dine with the group of students Friday night.

Vagabond Trip To Be Described Again by Student

John Manning, Victoria student who made a vagabond trip around the world and wrote a series of articles on his experiences for the Times, still is entertaining travel-hungry audiences with his experiences.

He will present two more illustrated lectures on his journeys by boat, airplane, ox cart and hitch hiking.

Thursday he addresses the Victoria Kinsmen Club at 6.30 in the Pacific Club.

Next Tuesday he will address an open meeting in Sooke Community Hall, sponsored by the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute who will turn over the collection to the Sooke ambulance fund.

IT'S ONLY AN OLD ARMY HUT BUT...

They Check Loneliness at Door Of Langford's 50-and-Up Club

By DAVID COWLISHAW

It's only an old army hut and it still needs a stucco job, but for 85 gallant men and women at Langford it's a place to laugh and joke in.

More, it's a place where loneliness may not enter. And it's unique on Vancouver Island in that it was erected completely by men and women over 50 years old.

The hut—nay, it's a recreation hall and club—was begun in May 1954 when an anonymous 80-year-old lady of Langford decided something should be done for the lonely elderly people of the district.

She tramped the area looking for ideas, then hit upon a clubroom as a suitable answer and promptly donated $1,500 to get the project under way.

Her enthusiasm spread like a germ. A meeting was called, six women and a man turned up, the Langford 50-and-Up Club was born.

Quietly, without fanfare, the members went from door to door collecting donations for a clubroom. Soon they were able to buy an old army hut from Gordon Head, then moved it to Sunderland Avenue.

Merchants donated chairs, kitchen and plumbing fittings and an oil-stove; members—some 35 or 40 by this time—pitched in to rebuild the foundation, clean the walls.

NEXT WEDNESDAY

Late last year 85 members were swarming over the hut—fixing this, improving that. Today the job is nearly done. Opening day is next Wednesday.

"And we're happy," said club president Adam Glover, 70. "Members have given thousands of hours freely and unstintingly to this work."

Credit for much of the clubroom's progress goes to club building committee chairman, Sam Sawyer, 67, and to his club secretary wife Mary, 65.

IT'S SIMPLE

"We wanted a clubroom. Now we've got one. It's as simple as that," commented Mr. Sawyer.

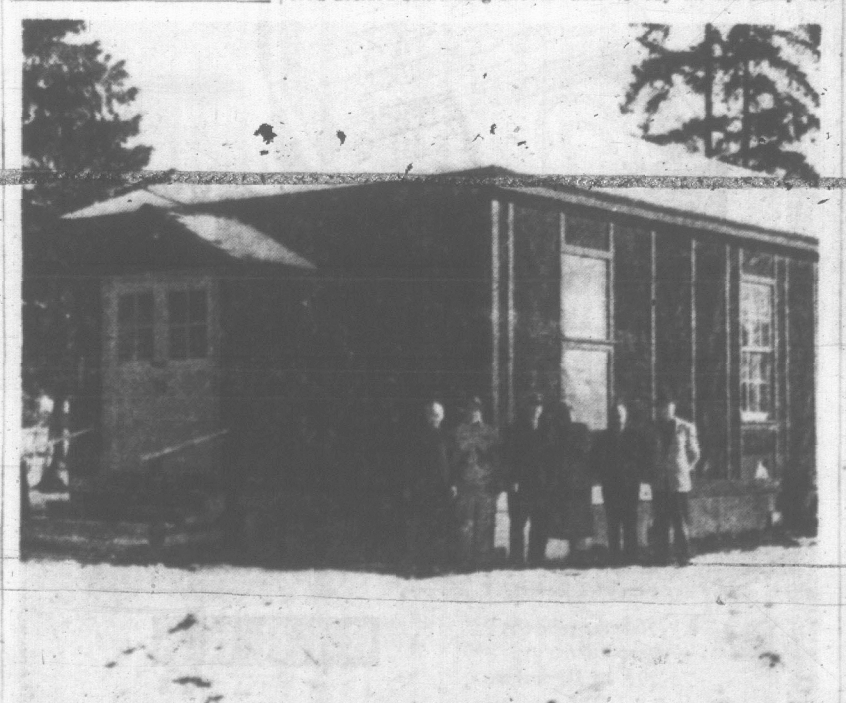

But, as Mr. Sawyer well knows, there's more to it than that. There's the quiet dedication of once-lonely people who found in the project a companionship they never knew before.

Let 67-year-old member Adam Duncan phrase it. "I help out because—well, because this will be a hall and clubroom where Langford elderly people may be happy."

Then he paused and looked up from waxing the club floor. "You know," he added.

"This hall means much more to us because we erected it ourselves. We paid for a lot of the work, we got kind people to help us out with the rest."

"But it's the club members who were at the back of everything. And that's its biggest value."

LABOR OF LOVE for 85 Langford "50-and-up" club members is this converted army hut, their new recreation room. Built almost entirely without outside help, hall will provide new

SHOPPING GUIDE

Inexpensive Gifts Bring Valentine Greetings, Too

By PENNY SAVER

My goodness! Here's that day creeping up on us! That day when anything can happen and very often does! The day we laugh about, shrug our shoulders about and yet, the day when we do have a lot of fun.

It's Valentine's Day, of course. A day that gives excuse to remember someone special. A little surprise in the mail or at that special someone's place at the breakfast or dinner table. The gift that says—"I care."

It's a day for anonymous gifts, too, that tease the imagination and make the persons who receive them feel pleasantly excited—and loved.

I know someone in Victoria who gets an anonymous Valentine gift every year. A dozen red roses. From "an admirer" the card is always inscribed. "I'm not going to try and find out—ever," the pretty receiver says.

Flowers always speak the language of love, and if he (or she) is a garden lover then packets of special carnation or nasturtium seeds, imported specially from England, might spell out "I love you." Price of these packets starts at 50 cents.

A very special begonia or gloxinia bulb that, come summer, would win raves at any flower show, could also be purchased for 50 cents.

You might like to give a pot of growing hyacinths with ferns. The fragrance would whisper for you—"I remembered."

Pots are selling at $2.75. Are you a bridge-playing couple? Then, cellophane-wrapped packages of score book, tally sheet and four attractive pencils all done up with a ribbon would make a lovely little remembrance. Price is 89 cents.

For the young—or the young in heart—there are leather-covered birthday books with verses by Robbie Burns, Longfellow, Shakespeare or Tennyson, for all through the year. Another book is full of fortunes.

The young miss of your heart or the sweetheart of years would be sure to like one of these books. They are selling at 59 cents each.

Not expensive? Well, what difference? Any of these suggestions with a pretty Valentine card would say "I love you" just as neatly as the most lavish and expensive gift.

On Etiquette

NERVY RELATIVES:

Have relatives a right to barge in on you without notice, announcing that they are going to spend several days? When I scolded one of them for not letting me know she was coming, she said, "You do not have to do that with your family."

I think you do.

Louise Davis Answers:

And so 'do I, emphatically. No one, not even a mother, has any right to do such a thing without first getting the cordial green light by pre-arrangement. Don't they realize that their arrival can easily be a very inconvenient time for you? Taking such a thing for granted is the height of thoughtlessness and inconsideration, for they should make no such assumption that you would be happy to have them. Don't they realize that

Is "iron-hungry blood" making you so tired you're ashamed?

Feel better fast when you suffer that run-down, weary feeling!

Take this blood-improving iron tonic compounded especially for women!

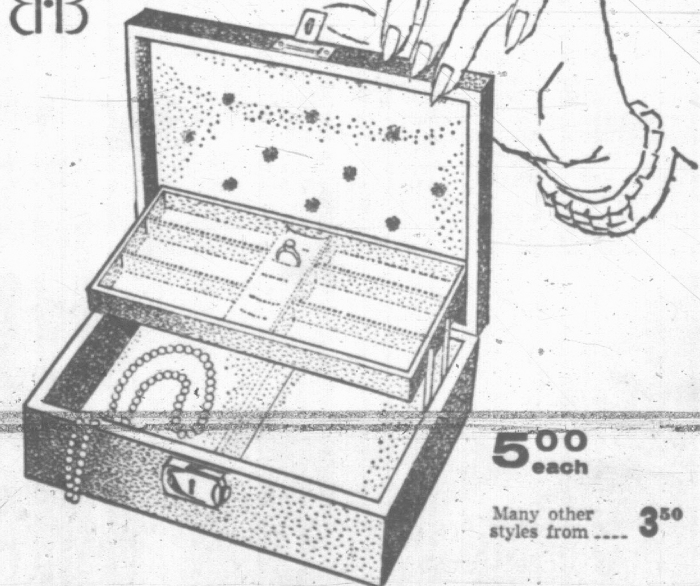

How unfortunate when a woman is so tired, so weak and run-down, she feels guilty that she can't face the day's problems. Luckily, it's often due to "Iron-Hungry Blood" (simple iron deficiency anemia). Then it's needless for those women to go on suffering such awful weariness without help.

A special iron tonic can help relieve this condition... thus renew your vitality! It's Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets, an iron tonic made especially for women.

With blood-improving iron, Pinkham's Tablets start to strengthen "Iron-Hungry Blood" fast. Thus quickly help build rich, red blood... to restore strength and energy so you feel fine again. In women, "Iron-Hungry Blood" is often aggravated with change of life and hot flashes. And especially in younger women—with monthly pain and cramps. Pinkham's unique formula can also bring blessed relief for these functionally-caused female sufferings that can do so much to drain away strength and vitality too. No wonder so many women find Pinkham's Tablets useful all through their lives! If "Iron-Hungry Blood" has left you weak and run-down, get Pinkham's Tablets at drugists. Then see if you don't soon feel more like yourself again!

FOR FEMALE AILMENTS! Tests prove Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (liquid) also brings quick relief from discomforts of monthly pain and change-of-life.

DEAR ABBY ...

This, Too, Shall Pass!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: First let me say that I am a very happily married woman, so I can't understand why I should dream about all my old boyfriends. For the past few months I have been having the most fantastic dreams about a different one almost every night. When I wake up in the morning I feel so embarrassed I can't look at my husband. I would like to know how I can put a stop to these dreams. Is dreaming bad for you? Am I normal? DREAMER.

DEAR DREAMER: You can't stop dreaming, so don't waste your energy worrying about it. Dreaming isn't bad for you, but the feeling of guilt combined with fretting and stewing about things over which you have no control can make you pretty miserable, and even ill. You're normal. Forget it!

DEAR ABBY: What if a man DOES break dishes, smash mirrors and destroy chairs? They are HIS dishes, HIS mirrors and HIS chairs, just as it is his privilege to kick his own automobile (or his own wife) in a fit of emotional rage. Any psychiatrist will tell you that it is healthy for a man to release his pent-up emotions. SAM.

DEAR SAM: When a psychiatrist advises a man to release his pent-up emotions, he does not recommend that he kick his wife. He can go out in the garage and take his hostility out on a punching bag. It's a man's privilege to swing his arms, but that privilege ends where the next fellow's nose begins.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I do not take alcoholic beverages as our religion will not permit it. As a result of this we have had many embarrassing moments. How do we handle the situation gracefully when a hostess tries to force a drink on us? Should we announce that we are forbidden to drink because of religious principles? O should we simply say, "No, thank you—not right now?" NON-DRINKER.

DEAR NON: If you offer weak excuse like "Not right now, thank you," you will be pestered every few minutes by a well-meaning hostess. No one need be ashamed to state frankly that his religion does not permit drinking.

Confidential to "Still Waiting": If his heart is good enough for the bowling team it's good enough for marriage. Tell him you are going on strike and have no more time to spare.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Provincial Council to Study Accident Causes in the Home

Provincial Council of Women, through its local groups will devote more time in the coming year to safety problems.

In a short interview this morning on her arrival to convene the 40th annual meeting of Provincial Council in the Empress Hotel, provincial president, Mrs. G. W. Kissick, pointed out that in 1958 there were 958 accident deaths and that 144 of these were children under the age of nine years. "One-fifth of these accidents took place in occupations; one-fifth were in traffic. Which means that three-fifths took place in home and community activities," Mrs. Kissick said.

LIVES WASTED
"In our centennial year we celebrated 100 years of progress. But in that year we threw away 270 centuries of living. At an average life expectancy of 65 years, 27,000 life years were wasted through fatal accidents."

"This is a distinct challenge to our councils to study the cause and to strive for a cure." Impetus has been given council members, Mrs. Kissick pointed out, through the fact that industrial firms with safety programs are now beginning to spend money for research into home accidents. "They are realizing that employees can be kept off work through these home accidents just as frequently as through accidents at the plants."

Grandmother's Lace Handkerchief Carried by Bride, Frances Hunt

A Maltese lace handkerchief belonging to her maternal grandmother was carried by Miss Frances Lucy Hunt at her recent wedding. Her floor-length gown was of nylon net posed over taffeta, embroidered with sequins. Red roses and daisies made up her bouquet. The bride is the daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hunt, 4545 West Saanich Road, Royal Oak. Groom is Arnold Marvin Glencross, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Glencross, of 527 Selkirk Avenue and Edmonton, Alta. Canon George Biddle officiated at the doubling ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church. Spring flowers decorated the altar of the church. A. G. Hunt gave his daughter in marriage.

The only bridal attendant, Miss Dianne Dewdney, chose a gown of coral chiffon with a matching headpiece and a matching corsage.

The bride's mother wore turquoise with pink accessories and pink rosebud corsage. The groom's mother chose a green and white silk print dress with yellow hat and a matching yellow rosebud corsage.

At Union Club

Archbishop H. E. Sexton and Mrs. Sexton entertained at a luncheon in the Union Club recently, to honor the executive of the Diocesan Board of the Anglican Woman's Auxiliary.

Harold James Glencross attended his brother, as best man. Maurice Hunt, the bride's brother, and David Stone were ushers.

At a reception held at the bride's parents' home, the toast to the bride. On the bridal table white candles and pink rosebuds flanked a three-tier wedding cake.

The bride chose a suit of royal blue with grey mink collar as her "going away" outfit for a Vancouver honeymoon. The couple will live in Victoria West upon returning.

Auxiliary To Renovate Six Rooms

It was decided at meeting of the YMCA Ladies' Auxiliary to renovate six additional rooms in the building in addition to the six recently decorated and furnished.

Mrs. G. H. Wheaton presided and reports were heard as follows: Mrs. H. C. Johnston, convening of refreshments for the men's annual meeting; Mrs. M. S. Hedley, coffee party in March; Mrs. W. Munro, house.

Committee heads were named for the coffee party. Mrs. G. H. Gregory will convene the home cooking; Mrs. E. Warburton, pies; Mrs. H. Botterell, bread baking; Mrs. T. L. McMaster, delicatessen, and Mrs. F. S. Appleton, invitations.

The meeting voted $25 to the Y's Men's Club to assist in furnishing of the board room. Plans were also made for a rummage sale in mid-April.

with an AUTOMATIC CLOTHES DRYER

Stop lifting and lugging heavy baskets of wet wash. Stop reaching, stretching, bending, stooping to hand up and take down clothes piece by piece. And, with an automatic dryer, you'll save miles and miles of tiring steps every year, as well. See your appliance dealer soon. Ask for a demonstration of an automatic gas or electric clothes dryer. It saves work - saves energy!

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wagg, 2531 Blanshard Street, wish to announce the marriage of their youngest daughter, Violet Faye, to Mr. John David Thomson, son of Mrs. C. Keller, Vancouver. The wedding will take place on March 14 at 7.30 p.m., in First Baptist Church with Rev. C. R. Easter officiating. Miss Wagg will have Mrs. Nan Wagg as matron of honor; Mrs. Betty Wren, bridesmatron and her niece, Miss Barbara Rippon, flower girl.

Undernourished Given Milk by IODE Chapter

A sum of $200 was spent on supplying milk to Victoria schools for undernourished children by Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, IODE. This was reported at the chapter's annual meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. William Ellis on Beach Drive.

Mrs. J. C. MacDonald, regent, presided. Other fund-raising events held by the group include an Easter tea, rummage sales, home-cooking sales, coffee given to a young boy after he found the minutes of the chapter's first meetings in 1918.

Total receipts for the chapter amounted to $419.07 and disbursements are $443.64. Balance on hand in bank is $74.81.

Officers for the coming year are Mrs. MacDonald, regent; Mrs. C. Riach, first vice-regent; Mrs. T. G. Clarke, second; Mrs. Clarke, acting secretary; Mrs. C. Markle, treasurer; Mrs. T. W. Hitchman, Echoes secretary; Mrs. H. Menzies, standard bearer, and Mrs. O'Reilly, services at home and abroad secretary.

Miss Ruth Jones, daughter of Dr. O. M. Jones, after whom the chapter was named, and Mrs. Warren Smith, regent, Municipal Chapter, were honor guests at the buffet supper meeting.

Love that cake! Strawberry angel creation is a beauty

A Valentine's Cake

Wherever the heart and love are concerned, there belongs a strawberry angel cake. Especially if there's to be a party, so for the next engagement announcement party, or for St. Valentine's, use this recipe:

STRAWBERRY FLAVOR

One package strawberry angel food cake mix, 1 minute frosting.

Prepare angel cake mix batter according to package directions. Pour two-thirds of batter into 2 ungreased 9-inch layer pans; pour remaining batter into 12 paper baking cups set in muffin pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees

F.) 15 minutes, or until cakes spring back when lightly pressed with a finger. Invert layers and cool with edges resting on other pans; cool cupcakes on rack. Place cake on serving plate. Spread frosting between the two layers. From one side of the cake, cut out a wedge about 2 1/2 inches wide and 3 inches deep. Place this wedge at opposite edge of cake to form point of heart. Cover top and sides of cake with frosting. Frost tops of cupcakes with remaining frosting. Decorate with candy rosebuds and leaves purchased at bakery or made with favorite ornamental frosting.

SEVEN-MINUTE FROSTING

Combine 3 unbeaten egg whites, 2 1/2 cups sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup water, 1 tablespoon light corn syrup in top of double boiler. Beat about 1 minute, or until thoroughly mixed. Then beat constantly over rapidly boiling water (with sturdy egg beater or at high speed of electric beater) 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Scoop frosting up from bottom and sides occasionally. Remove from boiling water. (For smoothest frosting, empty into a large bowl for final beating.) Add 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla. Beat 1 minute, or until thick enough to spread.

Makes about 6 1/2 cups.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Successful Sculptress Favors Female Faces

I recently had the exhilarating experience of meeting the youthful but famous sculptress, Flore de Henriquez.

Flore told me of an experience she had when on a lecture trip. She did a head of one of the local women. The woman did not want to be the subject because she had a receding chin. She always had hated this and was self-conscious about it. Flore said to me, "This woman had a lot of beautiful things in her face. For instance, she had a lovely expression, and eyes full of soul."

After the woman saw her completed portrait in clay she thanked Miss Henriquez from the bottom of her heart. Before that she only had seen her receding chin. Now she no longer feels homely because she sees herself more objectively through the artist's eyes.

We might all remember this. It is a shame to allow some physical defect to make us self-conscious. Anyway, we exaggerate our defects and are much more conscious of them than others are. Perhaps your crooked smile are charming to others!

Also, changes which come with the years can add to fascination and charm if we live with warmth and perception.

'Twain' Meet—Amicably

By TONY DICKASON

It is difficult for a Victorian to listen to a Halifax publicity man, even when bearing in mind Canada's motto "A mari usque ad mare" meaning "from sea to sea".

Halifax is 3,500 miles to your left, if facing south.

Down deep, one believes "East is East and West is West and never the twain..."

But they met here Tuesday, with no upsetting clashing of gears.

Leo Charlton, manager of the Halifax Tourist and Convention Bureau, is visiting Victoria for the first time.

He said, looking from his Empress Hotel window: "This looks like Halifax".

Cy Porter, assistant chief of the publicity bureau here, one of several persons on hand during the talk about Halifax, said nothing.

Mr. Charlton, on a 42-day tour of Canada to "sell Halifax" was asked: "How come the Navy hates Halifax?"

ALL CHANGED

"We like the Navy," he replied. "The whole thing dates back to the war when they were treated like scum. But that's all changed. If the Navy got out of Halifax, we've had it."

LEO CHARLTON
...coals to Newcastle

As another beat on the drum, the Halifax touter said "informed sources" predicted co-ed cocktail bars for Nova Scotia by 1960—women are not even allowed in taverns now. Mr. Charlton was clad in a N.S. blue-black tartan jacket and gives N.S. tartan ties to persons deemed worthy of them. Recreation Minister Earle Westwood got one.

RECOGNIZED

"We are the only province in Canada with a tartan recognized by the Lord Lion of Scotland," Mr. Charlton said. (The Lord Lion is acknowledged as a protocol chief.)

Halifax, he said, received its name in 1749, honoring the then lord of that name. The word itself, in early Anglo-Saxon, means "holy face."

In summation, Mr. Charlton said:

"Come to Nova Scotia, 'the ocean playground of Canada'."

Someone said a polite but protracted "harrumph."

Then the tourist officials took Mr. Charlton off to see the area which, at first glance, reminded him of Halifax.

Naval aircraft will fly between 1,000 and 3,000 feet over the Inner Harbor and Victoria between today and Feb. 23 in connection with armament trials for HMCS Terra Nova, destroyer escort in Victoria Machinery Depot's number two yard on Dallas Road.

DUNCAN BRANCH of Canadian Red Cross re-elected Mrs. Heather Bulcock as president for 1959. Other officers are Claude Green and Norman Howarth, vice-presidents; Mrs. R. Hulme, secretary; David Smith, treasurer; Mrs. F. A. Considine, chairman, Maple Bay sub-unit; Mrs. J. S. T. Fall, Cowichan Bay sub-unit.

Trains Crash, 2 Die

BRUSSELS—Reuters—Two passenger trains crashed head-on in thick fog Monday, killing both engineers and a brakeman. Fifty other persons were injured.

British Columbia made a serious mistake when the Provincial Police were disbanded and replaced by the RCMP, Francis Richeter (SC, Similkameen) said in the legislature Tuesday.

He said he was speaking out against the federal police force, despite the fact he had "no desire to suffer the consequences some of our members have experienced."

This may have been a reference to repeated summonses for speeding received by Highway Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

He said that although the terms of contract with the RCMP called upon that force to take over all duties of the old provincial force, the RCMP was not manning provincial weigh stations, issuing as

COST INCREASED

At the same time, he noted, there was a $19,000 additional cost for RCMP police work in the new budget.

Mr. Richter was critical of the budget brought down by Premier Bennett Friday because the appropriation for agriculture allowed for no additional agriculturalists or horticulturalists.

He said it was impossible to understand how an adequate program in these fields could be carried out or "even token service" given unless there were more personnel.

"You should have been the minister," shouted Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, who has complained of the same items in the budget.

"That's at the discretion of the premier and I am sure he will make the best decision," said Mr. Richter. His name was mentioned for the job last year when Cyril Shelton (SC, Ontario) criticized handling of the department under Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy.

Mr. Richter was also critical of the appropriation for the department of recreation and conservation. He said the department must begin providing restroom facilities for hunters

Arson Charge Laid In Pet-Shop Blaze

(From CP-Dispatches)
VANCOUVER—A 27-year-old man, arrested Tuesday night for questioning in connection with a pet-shop fire in the city, was charged with arson today under the Mental Hospitals Act.

Fire department officials spotted the man while they were fighting a three-alarm blaze which whipped through a pet shop and drove tenants from an old three-storey block at 313 Cambie Street. They said the same man had been seen at a small hotel fire Monday night.

Two women who were overcome by smoke in Tuesday night's fire had to be carried to safety by firemen. A fireman and policeman also suffered minor injuries.

Some 1,000 birds died in the blaze. They included a prize mynah bird, "Bootlegger Joe," known to thousands who liked to listen to him talk and whistle at passers-by.

'REMOTE' MAYOR

PORT MOODY—Alderman Harry Guest, acting mayor of Port Moody since Mayor Harry Woodsworth had a heart attack last December, has resigned the post, claiming interference from the convalescing mayor.

"I have a decided objection to being acting mayor over municipal affairs which are covered by remote control," Ald.

Guest said when handing council his resignation.

POWER EXPANSION

PRINCE RUPERT—Northern British Columbia Power Company is seeking a go-ahead from the public utilities commission to expand its Falls River hydro-electric power unit.

T. B. Black, general manager, said Tuesday arrangements have been made by the company to secure $1,000,000 to cover projected development at Falls River.

FRITCHARD RESIGNS

VANCOUVER—Chris Fritchard, labor representative on the three-man Workmen's Compensation Board for 16 years, has announced he is retiring at 65—five years before compulsory retirement age.

Mr. Fritchard is expected to remain on the job until June 1 to allow labor to nominate another representative for government appointment. The post pays $11,500 a year.

HELP HANDICAPPED

VANCOUVER—In a brief prepared for the Chant Royal Commission on education, the Greater Vancouver Community Chest and Council will ask that the provincial government take over education of all handicapped children and adults in B.C.

To be presented to the commission Feb. 25, the brief will also ask that handicapped students be integrated into the public school system whenever possible and that pre-school classes be started for handicapped children.

OATH DEMANDED

TRAIL—The Arthur Chapman Chapter of the IOOE has voted to ask Premier Bennett to ensure that no person be allowed to hold public office unless the person is prepared to take "our country's oath of allegiance." Preamble to the motion said a Grand Forks school board member and two civil servants hold responsible positions though refusing to take the oath.

Victorian Wins Toss For Pancake

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Winner of a Shrove Tuesday pancake toss at Shawnigan Lake School for Boys was John Mackenzie of Victoria, who won $10 for himself and an afternoon leave for his grade 12 classmates. The custom originated at Westminster School in the 17th Century, and was introduced at the school here by the founder, C. W. Lonsdale, in 1916.

According to custom, a pancake is tossed into the air over the heads of the boys. The winner is the boy who catches the biggest portion of pancake.

MRS. C. ELLIOTT, 69, a great-grandmother, won easy victory in grandmothers' division of pancake race. Pancakes were made by girls in home economics class at Salt Spring High School.

STUDENT PLAN SCORED

'Pulled Out of the Hat'

The B.C. government's new policy of subsidizing top university students, announced in Premier Bennett's budget last Friday, was criticized in the legislature Tuesday by John Squire (CCF-Alberni).

"I think he has pulled something out of the hat at the last minute," Mr. Squire said. "The premier's answer is that the government is not going to pay for the education of the average student."

He argued that the effect of this policy would be to assist top students while the majority—the average student—would suffer from increased fees.

"It means that costs for one group are going down while costs for another group are going up. We of the CCF are fearful of this policy the government has announced."

He pointed out that not all the bright students are successful in later life, and he added with a laugh: "Some of us in politics might be considered stupid by university standards."

Mr. Squire also attacked the government's power policy stating: "There are now as many power companies as there are people in the province."

He also criticized the B.C. Electric, the B.C. Power Commission, the Kitimat Power Co., the Wenner-Gren company and now the Peace River Power Co.

"What would happen if we had a dozen companies trying to build roads in this province?"

Mr. Squire questioned the B.C. government's "hurry-scurry" to develop the north.

SNOWSTORM IGNORED

Good 'Mudders' In Pancake Race

By DON INGHAM, Times Island Editor
GANGES—The fleet ladies of Salt Spring Island, showing plenty of early foot and stamina for distance, dashed through a snowstorm here in Canada's only Shrove Tuesday pancake derby.

Mrs. Noney Humphreys defeated a large field to win the ladies' open race in the second annual running of the pre-Lenten classic, started in England—centuries ago and revived here last year as a community enterprise.

Mrs. Jim Wickens flipped her pancakes in fine style to finish in second place, and Mrs. W. H. Bradley was third.

DISQUALIFIED
Mrs. Del Van Buskirk was close on the heels of the winner at the finish line, but was disqualified because she had not flipped her flapjack often enough along the 50-yard course, and tripped and fell across the finish line.

Rules of the contest were simple. Contestants had to wear aprons, keep the pancakes tossing throughout the course, and pick up the pancake and start over at the starting line if the pancake was dropped.

For a good part of most races there were more contestants running the wrong way than heading toward the finish.

EASY WIN

Mrs. C. Elliott loped to an easy victory in the race for grandmothers. She was pressed for two-thirds of the race, then her closest competitors dropped their pancakes, and that was that. She was the only entry of six to finish.

Only two winners in the school girls' race were Lynne Akerman and Susan Graham. Jean Galbraith was almost certain of second place, but dropped her pancake just two feet from the finish line.

DIDN'T TOSS

W. H. Bradley, wearing a natty red and white apron, won the men's open race, and Peter Cartwright was second, but he disqualified himself for not tossing his pancake around enough.

Last race of the day, for young boys, was won by Paddy Wickens, with Roy Rorick and Brian Beech tied for second place.

The course was laid out across one side of the cenotaph triangle in the heart of the business section here, and racing began sharp at 12:10 as soon as school children were free for their noon hour. Starter again, this year was Lt.-Col. Desmond Crofton, convenor for the ladies' auxiliary of the Canadian Legion here, sponsor of the event, was Mrs. Ivor Williams.

Assisting with arrangements were Mrs. Peter Cartwright, auxiliary president; Mrs. E. Bothe, past president; Mrs. Humphreys, and Mrs. A. Wolfe-Milner.

IN COSTUME

Mrs. Arnold Lutz was the only competitor to race in costume.

Canadian Legion members who helped out with the classic were Maurice Atkins and Dr. R. W. Bradley, judges, and B. C. Greenhough, branch president.

After the races the Evening Circle of Ganges United Church served a pancake lunch in the church hall. Those in charge were Mrs. Nels Bodden, Mrs. Irl Bradley, Mrs. M. Soper, Mrs. C. Mellish and Miss E. H. Smith.

IN 1000 AD

Shrove Tuesday was first observed in England in 1000 AD when Abbott Aelfric ordered everyone to be shaven in the week before Lent.

At the tolling of the church bell, it was customary for the housewife to drop whatever she was doing and hurry to church to be shaven, or absolved of her sins. According to tradition, one woman in the village of Olney was in such a rush that she forgot to drop her frying pan when she heard the bell, and carried it all the way to church. The incident turned into a race held to this day.

Failed Trust; Gets 30-Day Jail Sentence

Thomas Flewin, 624 Gorge, was sentenced in city police court Tuesday to one month in jail for theft of bedding and hospital supplies from St. Joseph's Hospital over a period of weeks.

Flewin was charged last Wednesday with theft under $50 value and entered a plea of guilty.

Magistrate William Ostler noted from a probation report Flewin had been in difficulty before and had been taken into St. Joseph's through the interest of the sisters.

"This is certainly a violation of the trust they have shown

Aged Woman Dies of Burns

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 80-year-old woman, burned seriously as she lit her furnace at home Sunday, died Monday in hospital.

Netta May Heard, a retired chiropractor, was found in the basement of her home, her clothes burning.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Kurt Jensen, aged 10, Omaha, Neb., for his question:

How Are Tears Formed?

Tears are not only for crying. The moisture from which they are made has a far more important job to do, a job which keeps it busy all day and every day. It has to keep your eyes washed and shiny bright. Every time you blink a little tear juice is washed over your eyes. For your bright eyes must always be slightly moist.

Tear juice is made in glands about the size and shape of almond nuts. There are two of these little factories, one under each upper eyelid near the outside corner. All day long, these busy tear glands are making tear juice from water and salt in the body.

We blink our eyes about once every six seconds. With every blink, a little tear juice is washed over the surface of the eyes. Small bits of dust are wiped away and the eyes get the moisture they need.

Waste Tears Carried Away

Not much tear juice is needed for this job. But even so there must be a place to put the waste tear juice that collects during the day. To take care of this, each eye has a tiny garbage disposal unit. This is a little outlet called a tear duct. It is a tiny tunnel that runs from the lower eyelid into the nose. Get a mirror and gently pull down the lower corner of one of your eyes. The little hole you see there is the tear duct. It leads into the back of your nose. Down this tunnel goes the waste tear juice which the eyelids have already used to polish up your eyes.

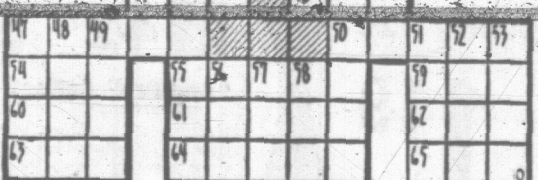

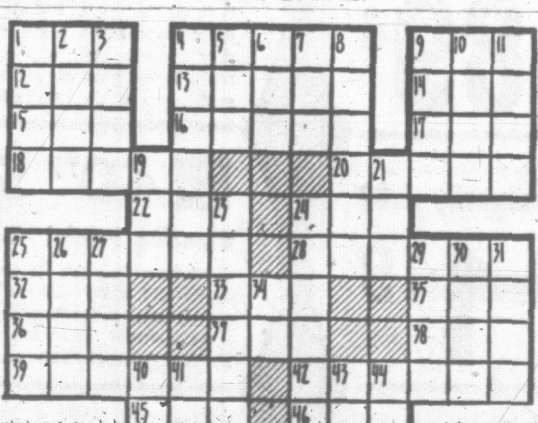

The tear duct is only large enough to carry the everyday moisture from the eyes. When we cry or laugh a lot, extra juice floods into the eyes. The tear duct carries away as much as it can. The back of the nose gets flooded, and we feel sniffly. Still more tears flow with no place to go. They fill up the eyes and then start running in rivers down the cheeks.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Cherylene L. Albright, age 12, Lancaster, Penn., for her question:

What is millet?
Our everyday cereals are wheat and corn. But these pampered grasses need a temperate climate, plenty of water and sunshine. They refuse to grow in many parts of the world. In India, northern China, and parts of Russia, the people must depend upon a tougher cereal for their daily bread. This cereal is millet.

The millet plant resembles any tall grass. The seeds are small and grow in a tassel at the top of a long stalk. These seeds can be ground into flour to make bread. But the flour refuses to rise when yeast is added. Millet bread is flat bread.

Perhaps you have seen millet seeds without knowing it. In North America, though, we do not use millet to make bread, but grow and use it as cattle fodder. What's more,

Compensation Appeal Board Urged By MLA

During an appeal board to which disabled workers can appeal decisions of the Workmen's Compensation Board was urged in the legislature Tuesday by John Squire, the CCF member for Alberni.

"There are thousands of cases in this province where the claimants have not been satisfied that they have received justice," he declared. "And these cases are mounting every year."

Mr. Squire said the Workmen's Compensation Board as now constituted is an authority in itself. It makes decisions which cannot be appealed except within the framework of the board.

REVIEWS INCREASED

He said the number of reopened claims from the board's decisions had risen from 55 in 1952 to 1,137 in 1957.

"What the figure will be for 1958 we don't yet know," he said.

He pointed out that the Compensation Board, besides hearing reopened cases, must also consider current cases and he thought it an impossibility for the board to do this combined work satisfactorily.

"I think the setting up of an appeal board is of vital importance," Mr. Squire said.

The Alberni member poked fun at the forms which have to be completed by disabled workers seeking re-employment.

TOO MANY QUESTIONS

He said they asked the applicant to state whether he suffered from "frequent colds, chest pains, rheumatism, heart trouble, fainting spells, hernia or skin trouble."

"And then on top of all that they ask him if he suffers from any disability. Then they ask him if he gets a war pension. What business is it of theirs whether a man gets a war pension?"

"Nobody is in perfect health. If we excluded everyone who suffers from chest colds or rheumatism or skin trouble there wouldn't be anyone working."

Mr. Squire submitted that all the good work being done by the labor department's rehabilitation officers "is being undone by these forms."

Tillicum Sewers Proposed

A $96,000 sewer project was initiated Thursday by Saanich public works committee.

Ratepayers in the Tillicum Whiteside area will be asked to vote on a bylaw for the installation of a sewer system in their district.

It will go to a vote in the near future.

The committee, composed of Reeve George Chatterton and all council members, approved the scheme after receiving a report on costs from municipal engineer Neville Life.

The proposed sewer area is bounded by Tillicum, E & N Railway, Interurban Road and Whiteside.

150 HOUSES

It will serve 150 homes including Colquitz Junior High School in a 38-acre area.

Cost to householders will be $67 a year over a period of 20 years.

Septic effluent will be treated and chlorinated in specially designed small treatment plants and discharged in Colquitz Creek.

Mr. Life said the system will cost ratepayers more than the first sewer program instituted in Saanich in 1956.

"That's because it is smaller," he said. "It cost more to maintain small treatment plants."

HEALTH HAZARD

Plans for installing sewers in the area were drawn up last year after council received a report from the health department that a potential health hazard existed in the district, he said.

"We have received lots of complaints of septic tank overflow," he said. "Conditions there have been pretty grim at times."

Mr. Life said the system had been designed so it can be expanded northward as required.

This is the second sewer project Saanich has initiated in the last three months.

The first involved the Cadboro Bay - Shelbourne - Ruby Road area. It was defeated by ratepayers by a narrow margin Dec. 11.

SECOND VOTE

Saanich is now planning to resubmit the bylaw within the next six months.

The question of resubmitting the bylaw will be discussed by council after Reeve Chatterton returns from North Vancouver next week.

The reeve will inspect and study the mainland municipality's sewer program. He will be accompanied by the municipal engineer.

Assessment Appeal Set For Feb. 25

Saanich municipality will present its case Feb. 25 for a 30 per cent reduction in assessments on houses in School District 61 (Saanich).

Court of revision Tuesday set the date after rejecting a bid by the attorney-general's department to stop the hearing.

Alan B. Macfarlane, representing the government, argued that the court did not have jurisdiction. But the court ruled it would stand by a previous decision that it was competent to hear the case.

The municipality seeks to obtain lower assessments for its residents in the school district on the grounds that Central Saanich and other parts of the school district have not raised assessments under the Assessment Equalization Act.

'TCA Will Not Continue' Says MP

Mayor P. B. Scurrah, Victoria.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Re Pacific Western Airlines

Further to my letter of the 26th instant, I may say that I have had a conference with

Mr. Carl Springer, the presi-

panied by Mr. Duncan Mc-

Laren, his executive assistant, and Mr. H. Lyle Jesty, legal counsel for PWA. As you are probably aware, PWA has its head office in the city of Van-

SPILLED OUT

Mr. Springer outlined his company's position in this matter as follows:

(a) PWA considers the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle run as being most important, as against TCA's attitude that it is small business and actually a nuisance in view of its larger operations.

(b) PWA has its headquarters in Vancouver and is most anxious to develop the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle run as a really first-class operation, and it will be regarded as such in their over-all operations, and will be served accordingly.

(c) PWA is prepared to make connection with the transcontinental flights of both

TCA and CPA if these companies do not wish to provide a connecting service from Victoria. CPA has stated that it does not intend to provide a connecting service, but wishes to rely upon PWA. TCA, on the other hand, is not prepared

(as yet) to say that it will not give a connecting service, but

PWA believes that TCA will not do so when PWA are prepared to do it.

(d) PWA is prepared to put on larger and faster aircraft, thereby carrying more people at the times when they wish to fly. Surveys have shown that the Vancouver-Victoria-

Seattle patrons have established a pattern of the flying times they most desire, but owing to the small carrying capacity of TCA planes now on this run, patrons have had to take flights actually inconvenient to themselves because of the small carrying capacity.

DON'T REALIZE

I have been reading the releases made to the Victoria newspapers by yourself, the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber and the Publicity Bureau, and I am struck by one thing and that is this.

It does not seem to be realized that TCA will not continue on the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle run. As far as I can ascertain, this refusal is now fixed and firm policy of TCA.

The Air Transport Board does not as a rule grant a hearing when there are not competing airlines, and of course in the present case PWA appears to be the only airline interested, or indeed available.

However, I still feel that the strongest representation should be made to the Air Transport

Board with a view to seeing that conditions are laid down which will require PWA to render proper service.

LITTLE MERIT

Apart from the frequency of the flights of the small aircraft flown by TCA, I must say that for myself I have seen very little merit in their operation of the Vancouver-Victoria-

Seattle run.

In view of the great interest shown in this matter I am sure you will not object to the fact that I am sending copies of this letter to the presidents of both the Senior and Junior

Chambers of Commerce and also to the Victoria and Island

Publicity Bureau.

(Signed),

A. deB. McPHILLIPS, MP.

No Challenge Was Issued —TCA Head

Montreal, January 28, 1959
Mr. R. Rawnsley,
President,
Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce

Dear Mr. Rawnsley:

Thank you for your telegram of January 22. As I think you know, I received telegrams in somewhat similar vein from Messrs. Parrott and Warren. These I replied to by wire, but I must obviously abandon this practice, because apparently as a result of these wires, there appeared in the Victoria Times a headline reading: "Air Board Blamed by TCA President," which is followed by an article which does not indicate what if anything I am blaming anybody else for, but does contain the statement that "PWA announced Tuesday that it had accepted TCA's 'challenge' to take over the run."

These occurrences seem to call for a factual review of the situation in writing, which follows.

In the first place, TCA issued no challenges, nor has it blamed anyone, by implication or otherwise.

Toward the end of the transcontinental route hearing in Ottawa Mr. John Hamilton, presenting PWA's case of intervention on behalf of CPA, apparently with the intention of casting doubt on the accuracy of TCA's figures of operating losses on its shorter runs, formally advised the Air Transport Board and TCA that PWA would be glad to take over TCA's west coast runs, and by PWA's superior efficiency would operate them at a profit.

Accepted It

On my instructions TCA's counsel replied that if Mr.
Hamilton's remarks were intended as a challenge, it was accepted by TCA, and that, subject to the necessary approvals, including that of the Air Transport Board, TCA would relinquish its licence in favor of PWA. (At this point, CPA's counsel interjected the word: "Good.")

Here it becomes necessary to explain some details of airline cost accounting. The figures of profits and losses by routes were, as was made quite clear in the evidence, prepared on the basis of what is known as "fully allocated costs," that is, every route bore its proper proportion of the company's general overhead expense. On this basis, the West Coast services showed with respect to the year 1957, losses in excess of $1,000,000. This, of course, does not mean that, had the company not been operating those routes in 1957, it would have been financially better off to the same extent. The discontinuance of the West Coast services by TCA would relieve the company of its direct operating costs on those routes, but the indirect costs would be little affected by such a move, and would necessarily be allocated somewhat more heavily over the remaining company routes. In 1957 TCA's revenues did not meet the direct operating costs on the West Coast services, but on this basis of accounting, the deficit was a minor fraction of that indicated on the fully allocated cost basis.

Route Licensing

Another point which I would like to clarify is that having to do with route licensing.

Under existing legislation and regulations, a scheduled airline may not abandon a route which it is licensed to serve, without the specific approval of the Air Transport Board. It is, of course, also the case that no carrier can operate scheduled services over a route to which he does not hold a licence. By the same token, route licences are not transferable between carriers, but the effect of transfer can be achieved if the Air Transport Board cancels one carrier's licence and issues a new li-

TWO LETTERS ON AIR SERVICES

Two letters dealing with the present air transport situation between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle have been made public.

One is from G. R. McGregor, president of Trans Canada Air Lines, and explains how the company was placed in the position of offering to give up its West Coast services.

The other is written by A. deB. McPhillips, MP for Victoria, in which he supports strongly the Pacific Western Airlines' bid for the service, apparently under the impression that TCA has made an irrevocable decision to pull its planes off the service.

Mr. McGregor points out, however, that he expects a public hearing on the issue by the Air Transport Board before any decision is reached as to who shall continue operation of the routes.

The Times publishes complete text of the two letters:

ence to another carrier, for a specific route.

At this juncture, TCA, in response to PWA's publicly expressed desire to operate the routes in question, has offered to discontinue its services, subject to PWA receiving a licence. PWA has formally applied to the Air Transport Board for such a licence. The board will respond to that application in such manner as it sees fit, but I would think it probable that it would hold a public hearing of the application, at which individuals and/or organizations who might not wish PWA to be granted the licences in question, would intervene.

No Alternative

I think you will see from the foregoing why at no time since the offer and acceptance before the Air Transport Board during the CPA hearing, could there be any question of TCA
"reconsidering" a stand which, in my opinion, it had no alternative but to take, in the face of its alleged economic inefficiency.

Whether PWA is to be licensed, and TCA dislicensed, or the status quo maintained, cannot now be decided other than by the Air Transport Board.

In conclusion, on behalf of

IKE TO VISIT CANADA FOR SEAWAY OPENING

OTTAWA (CP)—President Eisenhower will come to Canada June 26 to join the Queen in opening ceremonies of the St. Lawrence Seaway at Montreal, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

He informed the Commons that President and Mrs. Eisenhower will join the Queen and Prince Philip on the royal yacht Britannia for the seaway opening ceremony at the St. Lambert Locks, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal.

$200 MILLION FOR DEFENCE

U.S. to Share Bomarc Costs With Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Payment by the United States of two-thirds of the cost of Canada's anti-aircraft missile system is expected to be announced soon, informants said today.

This system, comprising the Bomarc ground-to-air guided missile, the Sage electronic control system and new radar stations, is expected to cost more than $300,000,000.

The announced cost of Sage and two Bomarc stations in Canada is $264,000,000 alone.

Canadian and American officials who have been working out plans for defence cost and production-sharing since last October—they held their third meeting here Tuesday—have used the general yardstick of the U.S. paying two-thirds and Canada one-third the cost of Bomarc and its ancillary equipment.

MORE U.S. CONTRACTS

The officials have also been grappling with the problem of how more U.S. defence contracts can be placed with Canadian firms.

This scheme is likely to run into heavy opposition from the U.S. Congress and industry, especially with the U.S. government paying the major share of the new missile system.

The Canadian government is concerned about the exodus of technicians in the Canadian aviation and electronics industries to the U.S.

CANADIAN CONTRACT

Canadair Limited, Montreal, may get a small order to build wings and ailerons for the U.S. Bomarc now in production. The Bomarc to be used in Canada will not come into service until late 1961.

Canadair has put in a strong bid for a huge U.S. government contract for some 200 radar picket planes.

De Havilland Aircraft Company, Toronto, has received an order for seven more Caribou transport planes from the U.S. army. The original order was for five.

Ohio Floods Force 1,500 To Flee Homes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—New floods today threatened Ohio's northern cities for the second time in less than a month. In Fremont, between 1,200 and 1,500 persons have been forced from their homes by the two floods.

But statewide, the situation doesn't seem to be as critical as it was last month. Then, thousands were evacuated in all sections of Ohio as rain-swollen rivers went on a rampage.

The Sandusky River passed the 17-foot mark early today—four feet above flood stage—and swept into 25 blocks of downtown Fremont.

Heavy cakes of ice flowed toward the State Street bridge in the centre of Fremont. If they pile up there, it's feared that a large section of the city of 16,000 people will be turned into a deep lake.

Search Plane Spots Capsized Trawler

NEW YORK (UPI)—A U.S. Air Force plane has reported sighting an overturned trawler about 80 miles south southeast of the last known position of the missing Icelandic fishing vessel Juli, according to word received today by the U.S. Coast Guard here.

The Juli, with 31 men aboard, sent an SOS Saturday reporting she was battling hurricane winds and heavy ice which threatened to capsize her. She was last heard from by a fellow fishing boat late Sunday.

The Juli and the Newfoundland fishing trawler Blue Wave, with 17 men aboard, have been sought by air and sea north and south of the Newfoundland coast by ships and planes battling the worst weather of the North Atlantic winter.

The Blue Wave radioed she was near sinking on Monday in high seas off the Grand Banks. One of her yellow lifeboats was found overturned in the sea early today.

Feud Over Cyprus Ends in Accord

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—Greece and Turkey agreed today to give up their claims to Cyprus and to start work immediately to turn the Mediterranean island colony into an independent republic.

The decision should bring an end to more than three years of bloody violence on the island and halt a family quarrel that has put a severe strain on NATO.

Premiers Konstantin Karamanlis of Greece and Adnan Menderes of Turkey worked out the last details of the agreement at a final meeting here this morning. They had been meeting since last Friday.

A formal joint statement said at the end of the talks: "A compromise accord has finally been reached, despite the considerable difficulties which this problem presents."

The cause of liberty, collaboration, and the welfare of Cyprus has emerged victorious from the test."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our heavenly Father, in whose patient love our lives are set, and out of whose concern we never drift, so receive us into Thy pardoning grace that, thanking Thee for the way by which Thou hast led us, we may set our faces to the future and our affections on things that are above; through Christ, our Lord, Amen.

The next step was to lay the outline of the agreement before the British government, which presently rules Cyprus as a Crown Colony. Britain has encouraged direct contact between the Greeks and Turks to solve the thorny problem.

U.K. Expels John

DOVER, England (UPI)—Former West German counter-intelligence chief Dr. Otto John was expelled from Britain today as an "undesirable alien" despite his wife's urgent plea that he be allowed to join her here.

He said that it was found possible to produce a properly constituted, safe and effective multi-purpose vaccine of this character, the idea would be to inject it in children at about the time they also get shots against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and polio.

During the last decade, he said, scientists have uncovered about 70 previously unrecognized viruses, including about 25 that cause various forms of respiratory illness, much of it in children.

He said scientists at NIH already are engaged in preliminary tests of vaccines aimed at some of these agents.

GARDENERS BEWARE: DON'T INHALE

LONDON (UPI)—Professor F. C. Pybus, a leading British surgeon, warned today that smoke from burning leaves and garden rubbish are possible causes of cancer.

Pybus, professor emeritus of surgery at the University of Durham, wrote in the magazine the Medical Press that, "the smoke from these smoldering heaps is darker, more irritating, generally foul smelling and, as might be expected, contains benzpyrene, a suspected cancer agent."

New York Firm To Probe Hydro 'Extras'

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

The Shrum Royal Commission has engaged a New York firm of consulting engineers to make preliminary investigations of over-expended B.C. Power Commission projects.

L. C. Peterman, vice-president of Ford, Bacon and Davis, will arrive in Victoria Thursday, it was announced today by Dr. Gordon Shrum as the Royal Commission hearings resumed in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Peterman will conduct a preliminary seven-day study of over-expended power commission projects. From his report the Royal Commission will determine if further studies are to be made.

A letter from former power commissioner J. D. W. Blyth, read by counsel Ernest Alexander, revealed that he may attend one of the sittings of the commission, set up to probe Power Commission operations.

RESIGNED

Mr. Blyth was appointed to the Power Commission on March 26, 1954. He resigned within a few weeks under mysterious circumstances and left Victoria for Cleveland where he became comptroller of Brazilian Tracton and Power Co. He is now a vice-president of Carling Breweries Ltd.

Replying to an invitation from the Royal Commission to give evidence, Mr. Blyth said: "I very much doubt my evidence would throw any particular light on subjects within the terms of reference of the Royal Commission. I doubt if it would be as spectacular as the papers seem to think. Mr. (H. Lee) Briggs (former general manager of the PC) has no personal knowledge of the reasons for my resignation."

NOT HOPEFUL

"... although I am not too hopeful at the moment, I will endeavour to get to one of the sittings. Other than to my visit last December, I have not been in Victoria since 1954."

"I would make no claim for personal expenses, if any, involved, but would bring my attorney . . . and I would be interested in having his expenses and costs met."

"Should I be unable to attend and should the Royal Commission want a brief written statement I will be glad to comply."

Mr. Alexander told reporters that the royal commission would not pay the expenses of Mr. Blyth's attorney. He said an offer was made to pay Mr. Blyth's expenses from Seattle (which he visits occasionally) to Victoria.

The Shrum Royal Commission was also told:

1. The value of power obtainable by the diversion of the Chilko River is $16,800,000 or about 30 times greater than the value of landed sockeye—

Dowell Offers To Accompany A-G to Ottawa

A proposal that Canadian National Steamships operate a Victoria-Vancouver service until the provincial government ferries are ready next year will be put forward at Ottawa this week by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner will leave by air at 8 a.m. Thursday, armed with a unanimous resolution from the B.C. Legislature asking the federal government to assure continuation of year-round ferry service.

The CPR plans to end the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle service for the winter two weeks from today.

City council members have offered to accompany the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner said today he will discuss the CNSS proposal when he meets with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and three cabinet ministers.

He said he has asked for an appointment with the prime minister Friday, and the following day hopes to meet with Defence Minister George Pearkes, Works Minister Howard Green, and Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi also commented today on the possibility of using CN vessels. The suggestion was made in the House Tuesday by Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby).

Mr. Gagliardi said if the federal government cannot or will not subsidize or otherwise arrange for continued CPR operation, the use of CN vessels should be considered. (At present the only CN ship on this coast is Ss. Prince George, laid up for the winter at Vancouver but booked for Alaska cruises starting May 24.)

Gagliardi Studying Other Solution

Mr. Gagliardi said he might have a further answer to the shipping dilemma to put forward later today. In the meantime he discounted reports the CPR ships now on the run could not continue without costly boiler repairs.

"They have an extension on their boiler inspection period and would be quite safe to operate," the minister said.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell today offered to go with Mr. Bonner to see the prime minister and also CPR President N. R. Crump.

"I, the mayor or an aldermanic delegation will go with Mr. Bonner Thursday morning if he wants our help," Ald. Dowell said.

He said he would contact Mayor Percy Scourrah, vacationing at Palm Springs, later today to determine who would go.

Ald. Dowell also sent strong wires to Defence Minister Pearkes and Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips—so far silent on the ferry situation—to speak up for Greater Victoria in the Commons.

"Citizens of Greater Victoria up in arms over CPR's sudden action to discontinue ferry service from Seattle and Vancouver to downtown Victoria," the wire read. "Request positive action by yourselves to keep present service in operation. Reply appreciated."

Ottawa Can't Do Anything—Pearkes

In Ottawa Mr. Pearkes told a Times correspondent that he has raised the matter of the CPR ferry with Transport Minister George Hees, only to learn there is nothing the federal government can do.

"Both Mr. McPhillips and I have spoken to Mr. Hees," he said, "but we got the same answer the minister gave in the House Monday."

"This is a private company and there is nothing the federal government can do to force it to operate an unprofitable business."

Mr. Hees said Monday he had not been able to find anything to the effect that provision of the ferry service was a constitutional or legal responsibility of the federal government.

Mr. Bonner said his basic task "will be to convey the concern of the legislature and gain recognition, by people 3,000 miles away, of the view held locally."

"The fact that a service of this sort is subject to interruption undoubtedly has a bad psychological effect and a bad effect on business which depends on satisfactory shipping service."

"It is all the more galling to realize the withdrawal of a Canadian service to Seattle will be replaced by an American firm."

(Washington State ferries will offer a service to Seattle via Sidney and Anacortes starting Feb. 26.)

Meanwhile Vancouver Island Coach Lines has announced stepped-up bus service Victoria-Nanaimo connecting with Vancouver ferries. Buses will leave Victoria at 8 a.m., noon, 4 and 7 p.m. daily. Elapsed time from downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver will be 4½ hours. Fare is $8.55 return via Nanaimo, as against the present fair of $6.75 return for the direct trip.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood entered the ferry battle today and called for a joint meeting of Greater Victoria municipalities, the provincial government and Mr. Crump.

"There should at least be a meeting to see if there is a solution to this problem be-

Interior Junior Colleges Aim of Determined Group

A British Columbia-wide organization of businessmen and influential citizens is conducting a quiet but efficient campaign for establishment of several junior colleges in the Interior. Education Minister Leslie Peterson confirmed today.

He said his department is taking no active part in the surveys being carried out by the group, except to "encourage incentive so the move will stem from the communities."

He said a group in Nelson is working in close co-operation with the school board there. It is understood the minister met with this group for talks while he was campaigning at the Rossland-Trail by-election campaign in early December.

He said so far the whole affair "is at the exploratory stage." The minister indicated during the election campaign, however, that a junior college in the Nelson-Castlegar area, which would also serve Trail district, would be considered at an early date.

It was indicated UBC Alumni branches throughout the province are taking an active part in the organization.

A junior college would operate along the lines of Victoria College, offering the first two years of the university course.

There are 11 such junior colleges in the State of Washington and it is expected similar operations in B.C. would do a great deal to relieve crowding at UBC and cut expenses of students in outlying areas.

BRITAIN MAY IMPORT YACHT PLAN FROM U.S.

LONDON (AP) — British yachtsmen may adopt an attitude of "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em," in new plans aimed at winning the America's Cup from the United States.

Four of the wealthier diehards are considering building four 12-metre yachts. The four would compete against each other for the right to challenge the U.S. in 1961.

If the plan sounds familiar, it is. It's the same planning and training procedure the U.S. used in its 16th defence of the cup last year.

THE SCOREBOARD

BY

Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA) — Baseball was the first professional outlet for good athletes. Next came golf and then football and basketball. Now they are making careers out of bowling.

You don't have to be a stickout athlete to bowl well, but William J. Welu—pronounced Way-loo—is something in the way of evidence that it helps.

Billy Welu, winner of the BPAA Individual Match Game Tournament in Buffalo, was offered a contract by the St. Louis Cardinals as a catcher while attending high school in Houston. The tallest big-time bowler at six-foot four-and-a-half, he excelled in basketball, and while earning a B.A. degree in psychology at the University of St. Thomas in Houston shot golf in the low 70's.

But Welu worked his way through school by working at bowling establishments. That gave him an opportunity to practise — three or four hours in the afternoon and two hours after the lights were closed at night — so by the time he was graduated from St. Thomas in 1954, the young Welu had fairly good ideas of where he was going.

Welu is now called the modern-day "New Day" and the picture bowler. No one in any line has had a more meteoric rise. He won the ABC doubles title in Seattle with Don McClaren in 1954 while still in college and was on his way. The youngster's meeting with McClaren led to his being drafted by the famous Budweiser Beers of St. Louis, where the pair joined Ray Bluth, Don Carter, Pat Patterson, and the renowned captain, Whitey Harris, in winning the BPAA team title in 1955-56.

Welu, who won his first tournament at 15, was an All-American from the outset, and his more recently acquired BPAA Individual Match Game championship is comparable to winning the United States Open in golf.

Welu is typical of the new professionals in sports, especially golf, and now bowling. He hasn't much time between assignments but can sandwich in 15 minutes in the Madison Avenue offices of the American Machine and Foundry Company, for which he is not only its star but also salesman and public relations man.

Welu looks and talks about as much like the television idea of a Texan as Harpo Marx. He is accompanied by his own press agent—himself—and he charms you to a greater extent than the slickest receptionist.

Welu, who hasn't yet had time to get married, is wealthy at 26. He has averaged $30,000 a year since leaving college.

"With this championship, I should make $50,000," he explained softly. "It depends on how well we exploit and sell it." He'll do that himself, and can be depended upon to do a job.

Welu owns lanes in Houston and Los Angeles. In 1957, he flew more than 150,000 miles for tournaments, clinics and exhibitions and appearing on television and at banquets. He gave considerable of that up last year to concentrate on the competitive end. In addition to his duties with AMF, he is a member of the Falstaff team in St. Louis, 1958 ABC champions, and a peddler for that brewery.

Is there anything scientific about bowling? "All I can tell you," said Welu, "is what I've learned in the last four years, or rather what I've swiped from others.

"The secret? Well, outside of the basics, good footwork and armswing along a straight line, it's how to keep the roll on the ball and playing the different angles and lanes, adjusting to strange or neutral lanes."

Welu owns lanes in Houston and Los Angeles. In 1957, the grey flannel suit couldn't even approach. The last figure was 22,000,000 million bowlers, but that isn't half of it, and elaborate lanes are springing up across the land. "I picked the right field," concluded Billy Welu, "Those professional football players are nuts."

Curling Heads Rolling Along Trail to Quebec

By The Canadian Press

One western province has settled the question of who is its champion curler. The other three are still working on the problem.

Meanwhile, heads have been rolling. Matt Baldwin, 1958 Canadian champion, did not reach even the Alberta finals for the first time in four years. He was knocked out of competition last week in the northern Alberta playoffs.

In British Columbia, greenhorn Barry Naimark defeated the favorites to win the provincial title. The 27-year-old Naimark, formerly of Calgary, said he entered the playoffs for a taste of heavy competition and had no idea he would win.

REPRESENT B.C. Naimark will represent B.C. at the national final in Quebec City March 26. The first western champion declared he is a member of the Vancouver Curling Club.

Alberta's champion will be crowned Saturday when Herb Olson of Edmonton, and George Menzies of Picture Butte clash in Grande Prairie. The finals begin Friday.

Olson upset Baldwin to win the northern Alberta title. Menzies won the southern Alberta playoffs despite a strong bid by favored Art Simpson of Bassano, the southern champion last year.

Manitoba began its playoffs Monday with a two-group, 16-rink competition and continued the giant-killing. Ab Gowanlock, twice holder of the Canadian and Manitoba titles, was eliminated in the fifth draw Tuesday when he was beaten 10-6 by Dr. Dick Bird of Winnipeg.

WIN IN 1938, 1953 The Dauphin veteran won the Canadian crown in 1938 and 1953.

Howie Wood, Jr., of Winnipeg, another former Manitoba champion, suffered his first defeat Tuesday when edged 13-12 by Jack Caldwell of Hamilton.

Saskatchewan's southern and northern divisions were still busy today trying to pick champions. At North Battleford, Gary Thode of Saskatoon reached the A and B group semifinals Tuesday and was the only undefeated rink after the morning draw. Gordon Grimes of Eston, Saskatchewan's defending champion, had reached the finals of the B group.

Two rinks were dominating the southern Saskatchewan playoffs Tuesday. Leading were Bill Clarke and Ernie Richardson, both of Regina, and undefeated with five victories each.

This immediately led to the cry of "Bring back Joe McCarthy."

New Deal Planned In Softball Loops

Senior "A" and Senior "B" Softball Leagues ceased to exist in B.C. following a meeting of the B.C. Softball Association in Vancouver last week-end.

This in essence is the report returned to Victoria by Jim Lackie, local representative to the B.C. Association.

The move was instituted upon a motion by Lackie and passed unanimously by the provincial group.

It followed a decision brought down at a gathering, last Thursday, of the Victoria Softball Association at which there was only one dissenting vote cast.

The action has amalgamated both "A" and "B" leagues into a single open association, making the former four-team Victoria Senior "A" League and the local six-team Senior "B" loop a single 10-club circuit.

PLAYOFF PLAN When playoff time comes, all 10 teams will participate with the top four teams meeting to decide which will enter provincial and western Canada "A" class playoffs and the remaining six playing off to decide a like Senior "B" representative.

The move was made to ease the tendency of lower class teams of packing or "pirating" senior calibre players and sweeping their division.

MAY HELP SUPPORT It will also standardize authority throughout the city and province with one governing body handling the group.

Lackie further expects that the joining will prove an answer to a lack of fan support, experienced recently by both former divisions, by presenting them with a better class of ball with many new faces in action.

Dorohoy Sparks Calgary Win; Royals Triumph

By The Canadian Press Calgary Stampedeers continued their winning ways in the Western Hockey League Tuesday night with a 4-3 win over visiting Winnipeg Warriors.

It was Calgary's eighth consecutive win over the Warriors this season and moved them 10 points ahead of second-place Edmonton Flyers in the prairie division.

Seattle Totems maintained their 10-point lead over second-place Vancouver Canucks on the coast, with a 1-1 overtime tie against the Canucks in Vancouver.

New Westminster Royals beat Edmonton, 3-2, in Edmonton to gain ground on the fourth-place Victoria Cougars in the coast division.

INCREASED HIS LEAD Calgary's win saw Eddie Dorohoy score three goals to increase his individual scoring race with 87 points. Calgary's other scorer was Lou Jankowski.

Warrior scorers were Warren Hynes, with two, and Barrie Ross.

Warriors' loss kept them in third place on the prairies, a point ahead of last place Saskatoon Quakers, who were idle Tuesday.

At Vancouver, the Totems and Canucks battled for more than 51 minutes without scoring. Then Don Chiupka put Totems ahead at 11:43 of the third period.

A late goal by Les Lilley evened the score, and the clubs fought through the overtime period without registering.

CITY HOOP PLAYOFFS SWITCHED TO OAK BAY

A change of venue has been set for tonight's second games of men's and women's senior "B" city basketball playoffs.

Half Way House will meet Farmer Construction and Victoria Bs will meet Naval Vets at the Cranmore Road gym of Oak Bay High School in second games of best-of-three series.

Half Ways opened their men's playoff last week with a one-sided win over Farmers and Bs also lead the women's series by one game.

Vets and Bs meet in the opener at 7, while Half Ways and Farmers play at 8:30 p.m.

Don to Watch Second Game?

Don Ashbee may be sitting on the sidelines at Nanaimo Civic Ice Arena Saturday when the Clippers host Navy in the second game of the Vancouver Island intermediate hockey playoffs.

Ashbee was assessed a minor slashing penalty at 17:49 of the second period of the first game of the best-of-five series, Tuesday night, in Memorial Arena. Nanaimo won, 11-8.

Taking umbrage at the decision by referee Johnny Smith, Ashbee is alleged to have pushed and then hit the official. He was assessed a misconduct penalty, barring him from further play in the game.

CHANGED PENALTY A subsequent report to Ivan Temple, president of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association, changed the major penalty to a match penalty, which could bar Ashbee for a minimum of three games and a maximum of one year.

Temple has reported to the British Columbia A.H.A. president, Leo Atwell, in Nelson, and a final decision on the case will come from that quarter.

Before being sent to the cooler, Ashbee had scored two goals for the winners, along with Joe Zuback. Arnie Dugan led the team with three, while Earl Robinson, Bill Sutherland, Bruno Furlan and Don Smith each scored once.

BRUISING GAME Joe Tanner paced the Tars with three goals as Neil Standley scored once along with Chobater and Cook. Morris scored twice.

A rough-and-bruising game, the contest was halted for a total of 23 penalties. Third of the series is slated for Victoria, February 18.

In the night's opener, Army clinched third place in the Victoria Commercial League, defeating Shell Aces, 6-1.

Pat McNeil and Tooth scored twice each for the winners. Al Nelson and Bob Ashworth scored a goal each.

YANKS INSTAL $300,000 SCOREBOARD

With All Those Bottoms, How Can Casey Miss?

By OSCAR FRALEY NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees, who make it a habit of being fastest with the mostest, stayed in stride today with what amounts to the largest pinball machine in the world.

This dandy item is a new $300,000 electric scoreboard which will be in operation by opening day. It is, naturally, the largest sign structure ever built in the United States.

The board will be 113 feet wide, 45 feet high on the sides and 75 feet tall in the centre and, with all of this perched above the centre-field bleachers, the tip-top will be 110 feet above street level.

This is, of course, bad news to Precinct 44 in the Bronx and apartment house dwellers beyond. In previous years the gendarmes on the day of a game roped off a section of the elevated platform beyond centre-field so that you couldn't get a bargain view for 15 cents. You'd be surprised how many cops it required to keep that little bitty space cleared. They couldn't do a thing about the binocular-armed folks in the apartments.

But this new electronic marvel takes care of all the free loaders, even the "working men" in blue. For it will practically block out the heavens.

This immediately led to the cry of "Bring back Joe McCarthy."

McCarthy, during his tenure at the Yankee helm, was highly incensed when Jimmy Dykes called him a "push button manager." The Dykes theory was that, when the Yankees needed a new player, all they did was push buttons and bring them up from the farm clubs.

So if Stengel blows the penant this year with all those new buttons it can be predicted confidently and authoritatively that the old professor will get the sack.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Members of the Central Saanich Council—undoubtedly gave hunters a break when they decided not to proceed with a proposed bylaw which would have banned shooting in the municipality.

They also gave themselves a chance to acquire a minor measure of fame by drafting a set of regulations that can be used as a pattern by areas facing similar problems in the future.

It is to the councillors' credit that they didn't take the easy way out. They selected a course that will enable them to make the wisest use of the municipality's land and game resources. Too often in the past, B.C. municipalities faced with a spreading population have operated on the idea that either all or none of their territory should be open to shooting without considering workable compromises.

It's a cinch that Central Saanich councillors face some tricky problems and must throw a tighter loop on shooting in settled areas. Safety of residents and rights of land owners must come first, but outdoor recreation plays an important role in modern living. There is still a considerable amount of Central Saanich territory where hunting is not only practical but is desired by farmers, who can be expected to suffer from increased crop damage by game birds if shooting is prohibited.

Petitions from farmers and proposals submitted by the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association probably had a lot to do with the stay of execution. And, working with farmer and sportsmen groups, the council should be able to draw up a shooting control plan that can be adjusted each season to suit changing conditions.

Permit System Is a Potent Weapon

Central Saanich already possesses some of the most effective weapons to combat hunting troubles and can be expected to insist on stricter enforcement of existing regulations, which have been little more than a threat to potential violators.

The current permit system, in which a hunter must have written permits—on owners of properties on which he intends to hunt—endorsed by the municipality, is a potent weapon. Through it, residents should be able to control hunting on their lands—if it is enforced—and the municipality can refuse to sanction permits to hunt in settled areas.

Since enforcement and adequate penalties for violations are the keys to success for any set of laws, thought might be given to charging a set fee for endorsement of each permit and using money collected in this way to pay a part-time special officer, who would check hunters at suitable intervals.

Also worth considering would be a regulation prohibiting discharge of firearms within a specified distance of public roads and residential buildings.

They may not be able to allow hunting for more than another two or three years, but at least the councillors are giving it a good try. And it might be surprising what they can accomplish—if they can arrange adequate enforcement.

ANGLING BRIEFS—Although steelhead runs appear to be tapering off, anglers at the Cowichan and Nanaimo rivers have enjoyed another good week. A number of big ironheads were beached at Cowichan over the weekend, including a pair of 18-pounders. . . . husky trout are helping make things interesting in several sections of the Cowichan. . . . a few steelies are being taken from the Sooke River and, although reports are skimpy, the San Juan and Gordon rivers are usually worth a try at this time of year. . . . troblers are taking trout at Shawanigan Lake, where orange-bodied wet flies should be hot items within a couple of weeks. . . .

Spring salmon off Oak Bay, which were most numerous near Trial Island a while back, are now hitting best around Discovery and Chatham islands. . . . if you try waters off William Head, Macaulay Point or Oak Bay, be prepared for big fish. . . . several anglers have come in with broken tackle and a pair of 24-pounders have been weighed in at Oak Bay Boathouse in the past week. . . . grilse were busy grabbing lures near the weed line at Cowichan Bay Sunday. . . . grilse are numerous off Crofton, but hard to fool. . . .

Fishing at Saanich Inlet has perked up again. . . . six to 10 pound grilse are active around the mouth of Tod Inlet and near the island at Goldstream. . . . best grilse catches are coming from around the Stone House and White Lady, but the small salmon are also hitting briskly at times in Indian Bay and near the Goldstream end of the inlet. . . .

Larry Larochelle leads the February competition of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association with 14.5-pounder taken at the Goldstream end. . . . winner of the January contest was R. G. Lyon, who took the first button-size fish of the year—a 23.5-pounder—at Tod Inlet and claimed his first VSIAA button. . . . an unconfirmed report says a 24-pound spring was taken at Tod Inlet Tuesday morning. . . . and it helps in your selection of lures, most salmon appear to be feeding on needlefish.

Macs Defeat Swedish Club

GOTEBORG, Sweden (CP)—Canada's world hockey team continued its winning ways Tuesday night on the path to the championships next month with an 8-1 victory over a highly regarded Swedish all-star club.

It was the fourth victory in five exhibition games for the team from Belleville, Ont. The other game was a 3-3 tie in Paisley, Scotland.

The Swedish team was made up of players from the top league, and included four internationals.

Major Roberts New President Of City Riflemen

Major A. J. F. Roberts was elected president at the annual meeting of the Victoria and District Rifle Association Tuesday night.

Seven times on the Canadian team to the world-famous shooting meet at Bisley, England, Major Roberts has shot in all of the major shoots in Canada and England.

Walter Burch was elected vice-president and Lloyd Millburn was elected as new association secretary.

Tide to Test All-Star Side

Preparing for a month-long exhibition tour of Japan, starting Feb. 22, the B.C. representative English rugby side will be at Macdonald Park Saturday for a tune-up tussle with Victoria's Crimson Tide.

It will be the second practice game for the 23-man tour team. The first was played last Saturday against UBC at Varsity Stadium and the stars lost by an 8-6 count.

Victoria coach Alex Macdonald has expressed hopes that the all-stars are heading for another defeat and his club appears capable of giving the tourists a rough afternoon.

Spearheading the Victoria attack from the forward line will be front-ranker Harry Turner, in Macdonald's words, "The most accomplished forward presently playing in British Columbia, and possibly the best we've ever had".

Three Victoria members of the British Columbia Reys will be turning out in Crimson Tide colors Saturday.

In the second row of the scrum will be six-foot, three-inch, 230-pound Chris Pollard, Peter Clarke, six-foot two and one-half inches and 195 pounds, will be eighth man.

Don Burgess, the third Victorian picked for the tour, will play fullback in place of regular George Wilson.

Lynn Patterson will hook for the Victoria team, with Sonny Vickery, Mel Davison, Ken Bridge and Tillman Briggs as supporting forwards.

In the backfield, Victoria will have scrum-half Gary Webster, stand-off Ray Calton, centres Bob Abbott and Jere Mitchell and wings Charlie Bishop and Leroy Bond.

The Reys' humiliation at UBC was largely due to the playing of Varsity stand-off Ted Hunt, fullback Neal Henderson and forward Gerry McGavin. This week the student trio will be with the Reys and tour manager Dave Mackenzie believes "they will be the difference between losing and winning in Victoria".

Toughest Tests Start With Yawata

The backfield of the British Columbia team Saturday will be Henderson, Hunt; wings, Glen Stover and George Pull; centres, Bruce McEachern and Max Howell, and scrum-half Norm Blake.

In the forward line, coach and assistant manager Ken Banks will have David Bruce Thomas, Pete Von Harten, Greig Bjarneson, Ossie Gjerland, Doug Muir, McGavin, Tom Christie and team captain Buzz Moore.

The Reys will play eight games while on tour, the first Feb. 26 against a Meiji University team at the Chichibu grounds.

The second will be March 1 against Waseda University and the third, March 4, against Keio University.

The fourth game of the series will be the start of their roughest competition, matching the Reys against a team from Yawata Iron Foundry at Kokura March 8. March 11 the Canadians will meet a team from the Kinki-Nihon Railway at Kobe.

An all-Japan team will test the Reys March 15 at Osaka and March 22 at Tokyo. March 18 they will play a combined Kanto team made up of Tokyo players not picked for any of the other teams.

Peter Grantham was lost to the B.C. side in their exhibition against UBC when he tore ligaments in the side of his ankle and was replaced by Von Harten.

Only three of the players, Howell, Clarke and Taylor, are not native B.C. rugby players. Howell came to Canada from Australia, Clarke from England and Taylor from Scotland.

Game time Saturday is 2 p.m.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The world's modern pentathlon championships will be held at Harrisburg and nearby Hershey Sept. 25-30 with athletes from 20 countries expected.

General manager Jack Adams said the decision to re-hire Abel at this time was a vote of confidence for the former Red Wings great.

The Red Wings are in last place in the NHL and face the

Lanky 'Litz' Sets Torrid Point Pace

MONTREAL (CP)—Big Eddie Litzberger of Chicago Black Hawks is picking up points so fast these days it's enough to give the National Hockey League's scoring leaders the creeps.

The lanky Chicagoan has vested six points in the Hawks' three winning efforts last week and now is only five points behind the National Hockey League's scoring leaders the creeps.

Scots Invite Brier Champs

TORONTO (UPI)—Canada's curling champions, winners of the forthcoming Macdonald Brier, will be invited to meet the Scottish champions in a best-of-five international series in Scotland next month.

The invitation was extended to Ken Watson, an executive of the Dominion Curling Association, who has just returned from a trip to Scotland.

The league's official statistics, released today, show Bathgate with 64 points, Geoffrion with 62 and Litzberger with 59.

During the week's play Bathgate broke a tie with Geoffrion, counting one goal and three assists. Geoffrion, who has extracted only one goal in 19 games, came up with two assists last week.

Bathgate now has a total of 29 goals and 35 assists; Geoffrion a 20-42 count. The New Yorker is setting the pace for goal-scorers and Geoffrion heads the assist-producers.

Maroons Grab Second Place

Harvey Stevenson fired three goals and Larry McCann one Wednesday at Memorial Arena as Maroons beat Royals 4-2 to take over second spot in the bantam division of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

Royal scorers were Jim Ogilvie and Brian Chamberlain.

Five-Year Plan Making Progress

A $180,000 road improvement and construction program for 1959 has been approved by Saanich council. Part of the program will be paid for out of general revenue and the rest under the local improvement plan whereby ratepayers share the cost.

Reeve George Chatterton said today the program is part of a five-year plan instituted last year to bring urban and semi-urban roads up to standard.

The program was instituted mainly to cut down the high cost of repairing and maintaining roads which have fallen into disrepair over the years.

It cost the municipality $70,000 to patch, repair and oil gravel roads in urban areas last year.

"Once we bring our roads up to standard our maintenance costs will be less than half they are today," said the reeve. "If we don't do anything our maintenance costs will continue to rise."

The 1959 road program includes:

The paving of nine miles of gravel roads at a cost of $70,000.

The reconstruction and installation of curbs and drains on Quadra from Tolmie Avenue to Cloverdale and Richmond from Newton Street to Lansdowne, $77,000.

Repairs and the sealing of 10 miles of roads in the urban area north of Alpha and Tolmie Streets. The total costs for this work will be borne by ratepayers in the area. They each will pay $7 for one year only.

The reeve said the gravel roads to be paved this year are mostly all situated in subdivisions which were developed in the past 10 years.

The work will be carried under 10-year local improvement bylaws.

Saanich will institute the bylaws and ratepayers will vote on them. A small share of the costs will be borne by the corporation for this work.

"In five years we hope to have all our gravel roads in urban areas asphalted and sealed," he said. "There won't be anymore of these roads as subdivisions now have to pave all their streets."

The reeve said council had other road construction projects in view but were waiting to see if sufficient funds would be available in this year's budget.

NIGHT BUS CUTBACK UNDER STUDY BY BCE

A B.C. Electric Company official today said speculation that Greater Victoria-evening transit services will be curtailed is "premature."

William Mearns, head of the company's Vancouver Island operations, made the comment following disclosure Tuesday that the company will cut evening services in Vancouver by 20 to 30 per cent.

Mr. Mearns said the situation here is under study "but we don't know yet ourselves what will happen."

Escort Problems If Ferries Stop

Stoppage of direct ferry service from Victoria to the mainland this month presents a problem for Victoria city police, who face a record year of escorting mental patients to Essondale.

When CPR ferries cease running Feb. 25, police will have no suitably direct means of taking patients off the island.

Any alternative method of transportation is bound to make patient escorts more expensive.

The present system is discreet, safe and reasonably quick, involving a minimum loss of work time for constables who perform the escorts.

Police usually take patients one at a time to Vancouver on the afternoon ferry, returning themselves by the overnight ferry in time for duty next morning.

Under existing arrangements the city is responsible for taking all mental patients to hospital at Essondale, although the RCMP provides escort for prisoners going to mainland penal institutions. For this duty the RCMP generally employs its air division, which has an aircraft based at Patricia Bay.

It is unlikely, because of the extra time and trips involved, that the RCMP would agree to take on the extra job of transporting mental patients.

There are reservations about sending mental patients aloft, mostly for safety reasons.

This and possible embarrassment to other passengers is given as reason why commercial airlines will not accept mental patient escorts.

Chief Constable John Blackstock said it may be necessary to use patrol wagon transport from here to Nanaimo ferry service.

In 1958 city police took 28 mental patients to the mainland and recently, possibly due to poor employment conditions, there have been as many as one a day.

"The way it's going, this looks like a record year," the chief said.

MONTE ROBERTS

Mr. Victor Murray, the friend of all the people who conducts a column for the Winnipeg Tribune, has received a letter from a constituent.

As if this were not surprising enough, the letter is about women.

What is more, the aforementioned constituent has been reading a book.

And this book, the constituent tells Mr. Murray, states that men are afraid of women, have been afraid of women since the dim distant past.

This, according to the book, is the reason men have been so reluctant to grant women equal rights, such as the right to vote and the right to give up their seats in a crowded bus.

And Mr. Murray's constituent asks, is this so? And if so, does it mean the men of Switzerland are scared skinny of the women and thus will not let them vote?

Mr. Murray, friend of all the people that he is, gives his constituent a noncommittal answer, obviously because he does not wish to shock mankind with the truth.

But I have no such scruples. Yes, Virginia, men are scared of women.

And because of this, men do their best to keep privileges away from women.

Even when men voluntarily give in, they try to save their egos. When they allow women the privilege of wearing trousers, for instance, they insist on calling these trousers "slacks." (Although in most cases they aren't very slack, especially in the back.)

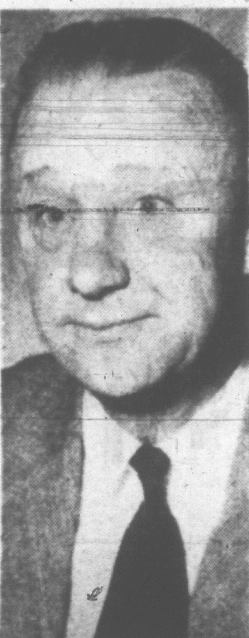

And when a man grants his woman the privilege of a night out with the girls, he pretends it is because he planned on going bowling, anyway. But he knows in his heart HE is going bowling because SHE is having a night out with the girls.

Yes, men are scared of women, and for that reason are determined to grind women under their heels.

The only reason they don't succeed is, they are too frightened.

Why, I know some men who are so frightened of their women they even deny them the privilege of doing the dishes.

Not that I have ever experienced... (Excuse me, I must run.) Yes dear, I'll get at them right away.

'MIS-MASH' WEATHER THURSDAY

A mixture of rain and snow Thursday morning is predicted for Victoria by weatherman William Mackie.

A storm moving southward from the Gulf of Alaska will give increasing cloudiness after midnight, then rain and snow and finally rain alone Thursday afternoon. There will be more snow in cold areas and high ground, Mr. Mackie said.

Temperatures will range between 34 degrees overnight and 38 degrees Thursday.

New Charges Read Against Man, Wife

Two new false pretences charges were read to a man and his wife in city police court today in connection with recovery of about $2,000 worth of goods Saturday.

John W. Wilson and Frances Jean Raymus, both of 1785 Ross, pleaded guilty to both charges, involving $530 in goods obtained from a pawnshop at 1415 Government and Stelck's Hardware Stores; 2680 Quadra, on Jan. 10.

Tuesday both pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences involving $214.05 worth of goods, property of Arthur Loof, 1314 Government, also Jan. 10.

City and Saanich detectives conducted a raid Saturday night in which a large quantity of goods ranging from electrical wiring to a surveyor's instrument was seized.

Det. Richard Berry told Magistrate William Ostler today the accused gave a worthless cheque for $400 worth of items, including a surveyor's instrument, telescope, typewriter and tape recorder, at Island Trading Co.

He said they gave a worthless cheque for $130 worth of household goods, tools and wiring obtained from Stelck's.

Willson and his wife were remanded to Tuesday for probation report, ordered after their previous appearance.

Willson also pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of false pretences involving a worthless cheque for food at Lake Hill Food Market, 3949 Quadra, totalling $22.17.

TRAFFIC FINES

TOPICS OF THE DAY

City and Saanich juvenile officers questioned the boys regarding damage to five classrooms at Oaklands School at the weekend and an earlier breaking, entering and theft at Doncaster School.

Articles taken from Doncaster were recovered.

Victoria Ward, who fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to two months in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of Police said Ward, who has a record dating back to 1935, was begging in front of Humboldt Street liquor store and became abusive when a woman he approached refused to give him money.

IT'S ONLY AN OLD ARMY HUT BUT...

They Check Loneliness at Door Of Langford's 50-and-Up Club

By DAVID COWLES

It's only an old army hut and it still needs a stucco job, but for 85 gallant men and women at Langford it's a place to laugh and joke in.

More, it's a place where loneliness may not enter. And it's unique on Vancouver Island in that it was erected, completely by men and women over 50 years old.

The hut—nay, it's a recreation hall and club—was begun in May 1954 when an anonymous 80-year-old lady of Langford decided something should be done for the lonely elderly people of the district.

She tramped the area looking for ideas, then hit upon a clubroom as a suitable answer and promptly donated $1,500 to get the project under way.

Her enthusiasm spread like a germ. A meeting was called, six women and a man turned up, the Langford 50-and-Up Club was born.

Quietly, without fanfare, the members went from door to door collecting donations for a clubroom. Soon they were able to buy an old army hut from Gordon Head, then moved it to Sunderland Avenue.

Merchants donated chairs, kitchen and plumbing fittings, and an oil stove; members—some 35 or 40 by this time—pitched in to rebuild the foundation, clean the walls.

Next Wednesday—

Late last year 85 members were swarming over the hut—fixing this, improving that. Today the job is nearly done. Opening day is next Wednesday.

"And we're happy," said club president Adam Glover, 70. "Members have given thousands of hours freely and unstintingly to this work."

"They've given of themselves in other ways, too."

Credit for much of the clubroom progress goes to club building committee chairman, Sam Sawyer, 67, and to his

IT'S SIMPLE

"We wanted a clubroom. Now we've got one. It's as simple as that," commented Mr. Sawyer.

But, as Mr. Sawyer well knows, there's more to it than that. There's the quiet dedication of once-lonely people who found in the project a companionship they never knew before.

Let 67-year-old member Adam Duncan phrase it:

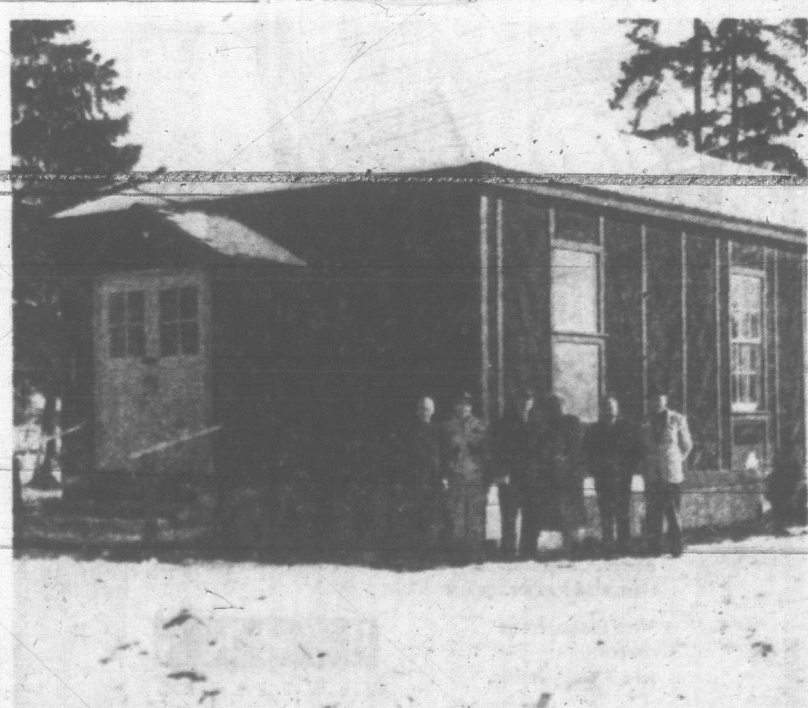

"I help out because, well, because this will be a hall and clubroom where Langford elderly people may be happy."

Then he paused and looked up from waxing the club floor. "You know," he added, "this hall means much more to us because we erected it ourselves. We paid for a lot of the work, we go kind people to help us out with the rest."

"But it's the club members who were at the back of everything. And that's its biggest value."

LABOR OF LOVE for 85 Langford "50-and-up" club members is this converted army hut, their new recreation room. Built almost entirely without outside help, hall will provide new

Love that cake! Strawberry angel creation is a beauty

A Valentine's Cake

Wherever the heart and love are concerned, there belongs a strawberry angel cake. Especially if there's to be a party. So for the next engagement announcement party, or for St. Valentine's, use this recipe:

STRAWBERRY FLAVOR

One package strawberry angel food cake mix, 7-minute frosting.
Prepare angel cake mix batter according to package directions. Pour two-thirds of batter into 2 ungreased 9-inch layer pans; pour remaining batter into 12 paper baking cups set in muffin pans. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees

F.) 15 minutes, or until cakes spring back when lightly pressed with a finger. Invert layers and cool with edges resting on other pans; cool cupcakes on rack. Place cake on serving plate. Spread frosting between the two layers. From one side of the cake, cut out a wedge about 3 1/2 inches wide and 3 inches deep. Place this wedge at opposite edge of cake to form point of heart. Cover top and sides of cake with frosting. Frost tops of cupcakes with remaining frosting. Decorate with candy rosebuds and leaves purchased at bakery or made with favorite ornamental frosting.

SEVEN-MINUTE FROSTING

Combine 3 unbeaten egg whites, 2 1/2 cups sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup water, 1 tablespoon light corn syrup in top of double boiler. Beat about 1 minute, or until thoroughly mixed. Then beat constantly over rapidly boiling water (with sturdy egg beater or at high speed of electric beater) 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Stir frosting up from bottom and sides occasionally. Remove from boiling water. (For smoothest frosting, empty into a large bowl for final beating.) Add 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla. Beat 1 minute, or until thick enough to spread.

Makes about 6 1/2 cups.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Successful Sculptress Favors Female Faces

I recently had the exhilarating experience of meeting the youthful but famous sculptress, Fiore de Henriquez. She told me of an experience she had when on a lecture trip. She did a head of one of the local women. The woman did not want to be the subject because she had a receding chin. She always had hated this and was self-conscious about it. Fiore said to me, "This woman had a lot of beautiful things in her face. For instance, she had a lovely expression and eyes full of soul." After the woman saw her completed portrait in clay she thanked Miss Henriquez from the bottom of her heart. Before that she only had seen her receding chin. Now she no longer feels homely because she sees herself more objectively through the artist's eyes.

We might all remember this. It is a shame to allow some physical defect to make us self-conscious! Anyway, we exaggerate our defects and are much more conscious of them than others are. Perhaps your friend would like to see yours. Also, changes which come with the years can add to fascination and charm, if we live with warmth and perception.

Loggers Threaten to Raid Jail

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood said today that striking pulpwood cutters have threatened to raid the Grand Falls, Nfld., jail to release eight men held there on charges connected with strike incidents.

RCMP Inspector Arthur Argent of Grand Falls said "all precautions have been taken."

Local Teams in B.C. Football League

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Roger Paris of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia Football Union, said here today a four or five-team intermediate league will operate here this fall.

The proposed league will have two teams from Victoria and two from Vancouver. Chilliwack may become the fifth entry.

Busso Weighs In 'On the Button'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Champion Joe Brown today weighed 134 pounds and challenger Johnny Busso 135, the maximum, for tonight's televised world lightweight championship boxing match at Sam Houston Coliseum.

Brown, 32, and Busso, 24, said nothing to each other at the weigh-in but posed for photographers.

Producers Agree, But Strike Goes On

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC and its striking Montreal television producers have worked out a solution to their dispute, Egan Chambers (PC, Montreal-St. Lawrence-St. George) told the Commons today.

But he said the producers are not signing an agreement until a settlement is reached for 1,200 other CBC employees who have respected their picket lines.

Feud Over Cyprus
Ends in Accord

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—Greece and Turkey agreed today to give up their claims to Cyprus and to start work immediately to turn the Mediterranean island colony into an independent republic.

The decision should bring an end to more than three years of bloody violence on the island and halt a family quarrel that has put a severe strain on NATO.

Premiers Konstantin Karamanlis of Greece and Adnan Menderes of Turkey worked out the last details of the agreement at a final meeting here this morning. They had been meeting since last Friday.

A formal joint statement said at the end of the talks: "A compromise accord has finally been reached, despite the considerable difficulties which this problem presents."

"The cause of liberty, collaboration, and the welfare of Cyprus has emerged victorious from the test."

NEXT STEP

The next step was to lay the outline of the agreement before the British government, which presently rules Cyprus as a Crown Colony. Britain has encouraged direct contact between the Greeks and Turks to solve the thorny problem.

British officials expect the Zurich agreement to provide the basis for a full-scale British-Turkish-Greek conference on Cyprus in the near future.

Such a conference should offer no difficulty in reaching a swift final settlement.

FOR SEAWAY OPENING

OTTAWA (CP)—President Eisenhower will come to Canada June 26 to join the Queen in opening ceremonies of the St. Lawrence Seaway at Montreal, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

He informed the Commons that President and Mrs. Eisenhower will join the Queen and Prince Philip on the royal yacht Britannia for the seaway opening ceremony at the St. Lambert Locks, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal.

New York Firm
To Probe
Hydro 'Extras'

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor

The Shrum Royal Commission has engaged a New York firm of consulting engineers to make preliminary investigations of over-expended B.C. Power Commission projects.

L. C. Peterman, vice-president of Ford, Bacon and Davis, will arrive in Victoria Thursday, it was announced today by Dr. Gordon Shrum as the Royal Commission hearings resumed in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Peterman will conduct a preliminary seven-day study of over-expended power commission projects. From his report the Royal Commission will determine if further studies are to be made.

A letter from former power commissioner J. D. W. Blyth, read by counsel Ernest Alexander, revealed that he may attend one of the sittings of the commission, set up to probe power commission operations.

RESIGNED

Mr. Blyth was appointed to the Power Commission on March 26, 1954. He resigned within a few weeks under mysterious circumstances and left Victoria for Cleveland where he became comptroller of Brazilian Traction and Power Co. He is now a vice-president of Carling Breweries Ltd.

Replying to an invitation from the Royal Commission to give evidence, Mr. Blyth said: "I very much doubt my evidence would throw any particular light on subjects within the terms of reference of the Royal Commission. I doubt it would be as spectacular as the papers seem to think. Mr. (H. Lee) Briggs (former general manager of the PC) has no personal knowledge of the reasons for my resignation."

NOT HOPEFUL

"... although I am not too hopeful at the moment, I will endeavour to get to one of the sittings. Other than to my visit last December, I have not been in Victoria since 1954."

"I would make no claim for personal expenses, if any, involved, but would bring my attorney... and I would be interested in having his expenses and costs met."

"Should I be unable to attend and should the Royal Commission want a brief written statement I will be glad to comply."

Mr. Alexander told reporters that the royal commission would not pay the expenses of Mr. Blyth's expenses from Seattle (which he visits occasionally) to Victoria.

The Shrum Royal Commission was also told:

Capsized
Trawler Sighted

NEW YORK (UPI)—A U.S. Air Force plane has reported sighting an overturned trawler about 60 miles south southeast of the last known position of the missing Icelandic fishing vessel Juli, according to word received today by the U.S. Coast Guard here.

The Juli, with 31 men aboard, sent an SOS Saturday reporting she was battling hurricane winds and heavy ice which threatened to capsize her. She was last heard from by a fellow fishing boat late Sunday.

The Juli and the Newfoundland fishing trawler Blue Wave, with 17 men aboard, have been sought by air and sea north and south of the Newfoundland coast by ships and planes battling the worst weather of the North Atlantic winter.

The Blue Wave radioed she was near sinking on Monday in high icy seas off the Grand Banks. One of her yellow lifeboats was found overturned in the sea early today.

New Wage Pact
Covers 10,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—An agreement affecting more than 10,000 members of four major unions was signed today by representatives of the unions and the Heavy Construction Association of B.C.

The agreement will give truck drivers, machine operators, laborers and tunnelmen a 12-cent hourly wage increase this year and 12 cents next year.

GARDENERS
DON'T INHALE

LONDON (UPI)—Professor P. C. James, a leading British surgeon, warned today that smoke from burning leaves and garden rubbish are possible causes of cancer.

BOMARC POISED AT U.S. TEST CENTRE

U.S. to Share
Bomarc Costs
With Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Payment by the United States of two-thirds of the cost of Canada's anti-aircraft missile system is expected to be announced soon, informants said today.

This system, comprising the Bomarc ground-to-air guided missile, the Sage electronic control system and new radar grappling with the problem of how more U.S. defence contracts can be placed with Canadian firms.

The announced cost of Sage and two Bomarc stations in Canada is $294,000,000 alone.

Canadian and American officials who have been working out plans for defence cost and production-sharing since last October—they held their third meeting here Tuesday—have used the general yardstick of the U.S. paying two-thirds and Canada one-third the cost of Bomarc and its ancillary equipment.

The officials have also been grappling with the problem of how more U.S. defence contracts can be placed with Canadian firms.

Canada has put in a strong bid for a huge U.S. government contract for some 200 radar picket planes.

De Havilland Aircraft Company, Toronto, has received an order for seven more Caribou transport planes from the U.S. army. The original order was for five.

Bonner to Offer
New Proposal
At Ottawa Parley

A proposal that Canadian National Steamships operate a Victoria-Vancouver service until the provincial government ferries are ready next year will be put forward at Ottawa this week by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner will leave by air at 8 a.m. Thursday, armed with a unanimous resolution from the B.C. Legislature asking the federal government to assure continuation of year-round ferry service.

The CPR plans to end the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle service for the winter two weeks from today.

City council members have offered to accompany the attorney-general.

Mr. Bonner said today he will discuss the CNSS proposal when he meets with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and three cabinet ministers.

He said he has asked for an appointment with the prime minister Friday, and the following day hopes to meet with

Gaglardi Studying Other Solution

Mr. Gaglardi said he might have a further answer to the shipping dilemma to put forward later today. In the meantime he discounted reports the CPR ships now on the run could not continue without costly boiler repairs.

"They have an extension on their boiler inspection period and would be quite safe to operate," the minister said.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell today offered to go with Mr. Bonner to see the prime minister and also CPR President N. R. Crump.

"I, the mayor or an aldermanic delegation will go with Mr. Bonner Thursday morning if he wants our help," Ald. Dowell said.

He said he would contact Mayor Percy Scourrah, vacationing at Palm Springs, later today to determine who would go.

Ald. Dowell also sent strong wires to Defence Minister Pearkes and Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips—so far silent on the ferry situation—to speak up for Greater Victoria in the Commons.

"Citizens of Greater Victoria up in arms over CPR's sudden action to discontinue ferry service from Seattle and Vancouver to downtown Victoria," the wire read. "Request positive action by yourselves to keep present service in operation. Reply appreciated."

In Ottawa Mr. Pearkes told a Times correspondent that he has raised the matter of the CPR ferry with Transport Minister George Hees, only to learn there is nothing the federal government can do.

"Both Mr. McPhillips and I have spoken to Mr. Hees," he said, "but we got the same answer the minister gave in the House Monday."

"This is a private company and there is nothing the federal government can do to force it to operate an unprofitable business."

Mr. Hees said Monday he had not been able to find anything to the effect that provision of the ferry service was a constitutional or legal responsibility of the federal government.

Mr. Bonner said his basic task "will be to convey the concern of the legislature and gain recognition, by people 3,000 miles away, of the view held locally."

"It is all the more galling to realize the withdrawal of a Canadian service to Seattle will be replaced by an American firm."

Arson Charge Laid In Pet-Shop Blaze

(From CP Dispatches)
VANCOUVER—A 27-year-old man, arrested Tuesday night for questioning in connection with a pet-shop fire in Vancouver's downtown area, was charged with arson today under the Mental Hospitals Act.

Fire department officials spotted the man while they were fighting a three-alarm blaze which whipped through a pet shop and drove tenants from an old three-story block at 313 Cambie Street. They said the same man had been seen at a small hotel fire Monday night.

Two women who were overcome by smoke in Tuesday night's fire had to be carried to safety by firemen. A fireman and policeman also suffered minor injuries.

Some 1,000 birds died in the blaze.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—

Winner of a Shrove Tuesday

pancake toss at Shawnigan

Lake School for Boys was

who won $10 for himself and

grade 12 classmates.

The custom originated at Westminster School in the 17th Century, and was introduced at the school here by the founder, C. W. Lonsdale, in 1916.

According to custom, a pancake is tossed into the air over the heads of the boys. The winner is the boy who catches

the biggest portion of pancake.

Interior Junior Colleges Aim of Determined Group

A British Columbia-wide organization of businessmen and influential citizens is conducting a quiet but efficient campaign for establishment of several junior colleges in the Interior. Education Minister Leslie Peterson confirmed today.

He said his department is taking no active part in the surveys being carried out by the group, except to "encourage incentive so the move will stem from the communities." He said a group in Nelson is working in close co-operation with the school board there. It is understood the minister met with this group for talks while he was campaigning at the Rossland-Tail by-election campaign in early December.

He said so far the whole affair "is at the exploratory stage." The minister indicated during the election campaign, however, that a junior college in the Nelson-Castlegar area, which would also serve Trail district, would be considered at an early date.

It was indicated UBC Alumni branches throughout the province are taking an active part in the organization.

A junior college would operate along the lines of Victoria College, offering the first two years of the university course.

There are 11 such junior colleges in the State of Washington and it is expected similar operations in B.C. would do a great deal to relieve crowding at UBC and cut expenses of students in outlying areas.

NEW ATTACK ON COMMON COLD

Virus Cocktail Coming Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government scientists are considering the possibilities of producing a "virus cocktail"—a vaccine containing a mixture of about 25 different viruses.

It is one of the means being debated in the search for a better attack on the common cold and other unidentified respiratory diseases.

Dr. Robert Huebner of the National Institutes of Health mentioned the possibility in an article in "public health reports," issued by the public health service.

He said that if it were found possible to produce a properly constituted, safe and effective multi-purpose vaccine of this character, the idea would be to inject it in children at about the time they also get shots against whooping cough.

During the last decade, he said, scientists have uncovered about 70 previously unrecognized viruses, including about 25 that cause various forms of respiratory illness, much of it in children.

SNOWSTORM IGNORED

Good 'Mudders' In Pancake Race

By DON INGHAM, Times Island Editor
GANGES—The fleet ladies of Salt Spring Island, showing plenty of early foot and stamina for distance, dashed through a snowstorm here in Canada's only Shrove Tuesday pancake derby.

Mrs. Noney Humphreys defeated a large field to win the ladies' open race in the second annual running of the pre-Lenten classic, started in England centuries ago and revived here last year as a community enterprise.

Mrs. Jim Wickens flipped her pancakes in fine style to finish in second place, and Mrs. W. H. Bradley was third.

DISQUALIFIED

Mrs. Del Van Buskirk was close on the heels of the winner at the finish line, but was disqualified because she had not flipped her flapjack often enough along the 50-yard course, and tripped and fell across the finish line.

Rules of the contest were simple. Contestants had to wear aprons, keep the pancakes tossing throughout the course, and pick up the pancake and start over at the starting line if the pancake was dropped.

For a good part of most races there were more contestants running the wrong way than heading toward the finish.

EASY WIN

Mrs. C. Elottit leaped to an easy victory in the race for grandmothers. She was pressed for two-thirds of the race, then her closest competitors dropped their pancakes, and that was that. She was the only entry of six to finish.

Only two winners in the school girls' race were Lynne Ackerman and Susan Graham. Jean Galbraith was almost certain of second place, but dropped her pancake just two feet from the finish line.

DIDN'T TOSS

W. H. Bradley, wearing a natty red and white apron, won the men's open race, and Peter Cartwright was second, but he disqualified himself for not tossing his pancake around enough

Kidd Heads Legion At Sooke

SOOKE—L. C. Kidd has been elected president of Sooke branch, Canadian Legion, to succeed W. A. Asbury.

Other officers are J. H. Martin and R. G. Waters, vice-president; Donald Morrison, secretary-treasurer, and Harry Pridiger, sergeant-at-arms.

WOMEN ELECTED

Officers of the branch women's auxiliary, elected at a separate meeting, are Mrs. R. G. Waters, president; Mrs. Harry Pridiger, vice-president; Mrs. A. K. Feitus, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. William Locke, past president.

Executive members are Mrs. James Martin, Mrs. L. C. Kidd, Mrs. John Martin, and Mrs. George Jones. Delegates to the zone council are Mrs. Waters and Mrs. Pridiger, with Mrs. Locke and Mrs. H. L. Priske acting as alternates.
